Georgia Mayor, 5 Others Face Liquor Charges

LATE NEWS

U. S. Air Force Has 2 Air Refueling Squadrons

TUCSON, Ariz.—(AP)—The U. S. Air Force now has two air refueling squadrons—aerial tankers which make non-stop world-circling flights possible.

Davis-Monthan Air Force Base officials yesterday revealed one of the squadrons is based here, the other at Roswell, N. M. Each squadron has about 20 planes.

Capt. George M. Lockhart, operations officer of the 43rd Air Refueling Squadron, says completion of the recent nonstop world trip by "Lucky Lady II" will "step up" air refueling operations.

The Lucky Lady II," a B-50 bomber, last week flew around the world in 94 hours without a stop.

All B-50s can be converted so they may be refueled in the air, Capt. Lockhart said, and all B-29s can be changed into gas tankers.

Rat Routs 500 Women Communists

PISA, Italy—(UP)—Five hundred women fled in panic Thursday night when a rat plunged into the orchestra at a Communist meeting at the moment when peace doves were supposed to flutter overhead.

"Down with war!" shouted the Communist orator as he reached the climax of his speech. "Death to the Atlantic Pact! Look what great, motherly, benevolent Russia is doing! Long live peace!"

He gestured toward attendants who were supposed to release the doves. Instead, a field rat, which those near by insisted was two feet long, ran suddenly along the balcony rail and plunged into the orchestra. The women shrieked and fled.

2d Dope Charge Against Mitchum Dropped

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—When Robert Mitchum and Lila Leeds finish their current jail terms, they'll be all square with the law.

On motion of the District Attorney's office, charges of possessing marijuana at a midnight cigarette smoking party in Laurel Canyon were dismissed yesterday by Superior Judge Clement D. Nye.

Mitchum, film tough guy, and Miss Leeds, blonde starlet, are serving 60-day jail sentences on a second charge, conspiracy to possess marijuana. They were convicted after a trial on that count alone, with the second charge held in abeyance.

Thursday, Vicki Evans, blonde dancer, was acquitted on conspiracy charges in the same case and had a possession charge dismissed.

$1,000,000 Gas Fires Rages at Mississippi Mouth

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—A tremendous gas-fume fire was roaring several hundred feet into the sky at the mouth of the Mississippi River last night, after an explosion caused by a Tideland Oil drilling rig striking a gas strata.

Shell Oil Company officials said one man was burned, but not seriously, and that the crew of about 12 escaped in motorboats.

They estimated damage at $1,000,000.

Senate Vote Called Death Of 'Rights'

Southerners Deal Truman Heavy Blow As Party Lines Split

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Southern Senators won a major test last night in their battle to carry on their 11-day-old filibuster.

A motion by Democratic Leader Lucas, Illinois, aimed at an eventual halt to the talkathon, was defeated on a vote which split party lines wide open. The vote was 46 to 41.

This was a heavy blow to the Truman Administration, which has been battling for a change in Senate rules so filibusters can be curbed.

Southerners, fighting to retain the filibuster weapon so they can talk President Truman's civil rights legislation to death, were jubilant. They figured they had the anti-lynch, anti-poll tax and other civil rights legislation as good as whipped.

The parliamentary tangle that led up to the test was complicated. This was the sequence of events:

1. Last year Sen. Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, then the presiding officer, decided that under the rules no limit can be clamped on debate on a motion.
2. Eleven days ago Leader Lucas moved to take up a proposal, sponsored by Northern Democrats and Republicans, to change the rules so two-thirds of those present could limit any debate. The Southerners started filibustering.
3. Thursday night, Vice President Barkley ruled that, even without a change in rules, a two-thirds majority could limit debate on Lucas' motion.
4. Sen. Russell, Democrat, Georgia, leading the Southern forces, appealed Barkley's ruling to the Senate membership.
5. Lucas moved last night to lay Russell's appeal on the table.

It was this last-named Lucas motion which was beaten down.

Actress Out of Pact

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Actress Janis Paige announced yesterday she has negotiated her release from her Warner Bros. film contract because she was relegated a 12-line part in a forthcoming picture. The actress said that she didn't think the studio was "fair" in offering her a minor role.

FIRE ALARMS STIR PRANKSTER HUNT

Atlanta police early today were seeking pranksters who turned in false alarms over North Atlanta last night.

Equipment from several companies raced across town on three false alarm calls in rapid succession. One was turned in from State and Tenth sts., N. W.; another from The Prado and South Prado, N. E., in Ansley Park and the third at Argonne Ave., and Sixth St., N. E.

Lt. J. C. Atha said the distance of one false alarm call to the other and the length of time covering the three calls the pranksters evidently were traveling by auto.

There was no clue to the identity of the pranksters, police said.

JAP PUPPET GEMS GIVEN TO WIDOW

MANILA —(AP)— Jewelry seized by United States forces from Jose P. Laurel, Japanese puppet president of the Philippines, has been returned.

Pres. Elpidio Quirino handed jewels insured at $75,000 to Mrs. Laurel Thursday.

U. S. counter intelligence agents confiscated the jewelry at the end of World War II.

Long-Sought Spy Suspect Is Found

Special to The Constitution

WASHINGTON — A Red spy suspect, long sought as a vital missing link in the famous case of the "Pumpkin Papers," has been located in California by the FBI and is "singing his head off," it was learned here last night. The suspect, a photographer, has furnished startling new information, it was said, about the affairs of Whittaker Chambers, the confessed former Communist spying courier, and microfilms he made of secret state papers.

The revelations are expected to bring new action by the special New York Grand Jury on Espionage. The House Un-American Activities Committee, ready to launch its own new blue-ribbon investigation of Red spy rings and Communist cells in Washington, also is following the California developments closely.

Officials are carefully guarding the name of the new witness, details of his testimony, and where in California he is being quizzed. It was learned that he has cast new light on Chambers' role in the Red underground which filched top secret Government papers for the Russians before World War II.

The FBI and the House committee have been seeking the photographer since last December, when Chambers suddenly produced five rolls of microfilm, photographs of the papers, from a hollowed-out pumpkin on his farm near Westminster, Md.

At that time, committee investigators said two Communist photographers were suspected of helping Chambers make the film in a secret studio, probably in Baltimore.

One suspect, linked to the Baltimore studio, was located quickly and grilled by the former New York Grand Jury, apparently without important result. The California witness is the second suspect.

FBI agents are now checking this photographer's story. If it stands up, as expected, the information will be turned over to the new Grand Jury.

The former Grand Jury indicted Alger Hiss, ex-State Department official, for perjury in denying he gave some of the top secret papers to Chambers to be microflimed. Hiss is still awaiting trial. No Federal action has been instituted against Chambers to date.

The Justice Department and the House Committee have buried their old feud and are co-operating closely in the new coast-to-coast crackdown on Red spies.

One lively piece of FBI evidence which has just been made available to the committee is a telegram from the Communist-dominated Polish Government in Warsaw to the Polish Consul in New York, picked up in March, 1948. In the telegram, the Red Warsaw bosses asked the consul what the Polish Embassy in Washington was doing to "cultivate" U. S. officials and their wives.

$500 Bonds Win Release In Berrien

Suspected Official Blames Wet-Dry Political Fight

NASHVILLE — Mayor B. Morris, 40, of Nashville, and five other Berrien County residents were arrested last Saturday on liquor law violation charges in "dry" Berrien County, State revenue agents revealed to The Constitution last night.

C. D. Smith, of Moultrie, who with eight other revenue agents made the raids, said the suspects were released on bond, reported as $500 each.

Besides Mayor Morris, Revenue Agent Smith listed the men as Herbert Gill, 50, operator of a tourist camp between Tifton and Alapaha; W. H. Dampier, store owner at Ray City; E. E. Barrentine, roadhouse operator on the highway to Tifton; A. V. Purvis, 32, Alapaha store and filling station proprietor, and C. M. Alexander, 29, store operator on the Tifton highway.

Mayor Morris issued a statement last night saying "we consider it a raid on our wet contest. It was caused by the drys of Berrien County. As far as I am concerned, what they got from me was some mint gin which I purhased in 1945 and was registered with the wholesaler It was being held for the wholesaler to pick up in view of the contest resulting from the recent wet-dry election."

Revenue Agent Smith said the men are charged with "possessing more liquor than the law permits in a dry county." He added that each of the suspects had in his possesion more than one quart, which is the limit allowed per person by the state law.

No untax paid whiskey was discovered during the various raids, Smith declared.

He added that more than 10 cases in fifths, pints and half pints, were seized in the raids.

Judge E. R. Smith of Nashville, Smith continued, had ordered all liquor establishments to stop operations followed the outcome of a wet-dry election contest.

An injunction was then obtained by "a group in an effort to nullify the election because of irregularities."

This injunction later was reportedly dissolved.

The accused are scheduled to appear for trial before the May Term of the Berrien County Court in Nashville.

Revenue Agent Smith said the raids were maide at both the residences and business establishments of the suspects.

This raid followed closely on the heels of "one of the biggest takes" in some time throughout Georgia, Agent Smith declared, when 110 cases of liquor were seized last month at Douglas.

Smith listed the other revenue agents who participated in the raids in Berrien County as Frank Moore, Roy Cook, of Warwick: C. G. Covington, J. T. Barfield, Gaines Reeves, of Moultrie; D. W. Fitzgerald, Ralph Davis, of Camilla, and Henry Touchton, of Valdosta.

Uniform Traffic Code Proposed For Atlanta Metropolitan Area

A uniform traffic code for the 27 various governments in Metropolitan Atlanta appeared a step nearer yesterday when a special traffic committee from the Greater Atlanta Traffic Improvement Association submitted a tentative proposal to city leaders.

Labeled as a tentative proposal subject to change, some copies were released to various Atlanta officials for study and criticism.

Creation of the post of traffic engineer, who would be given broad powers in standardizing procedures, is the major part of the new proposal, but it also deals with several other important phases of enforcement.

Under the proposal, the traffic engineer would have authority to establish speed limits up to 55 miles an hour without special action by City Council. The higher speeds would be authorized along boulevards having a progressive traffic light control installation and along expressways now under construction.

While the new proposal would become operative only in Atlanta, under the projected plan, representatives of various governments in Metropolitan Atlanta have already indicated they will support an over-all traffic plan designed to speed up the flow of traffic and relieve congestion. Leaders are confident that the plan could be made effective throughout the Atlanta area without any considerable delay.

Another feature of the proposal is that youthful bicycle and velocipede riders would get a safer break. Existing ordinances prohibit riding such vehicles on sidewalks, thus forcing the youngsters into the streets. The new proposal would permit children up to 13 years of age to ride on sidewalks in residential sections. This, it is believed, would cut down on accidents in that category.

For years a blanket charge of reckless driving has been booked against all sorts of traffic law violators. The new code would make it necessary for the accusing officer to specify the charge rather than blanket it under reckless driving.

The new code is patterned after the Federal Government's suggested uniform traffic code. There are many changes. The proposal is voluminous and contains many provisions of existing ordinances in which no changes have been suggested.

It was reported yesterday that the work of the special traffic group will be submitted to the directors of the Greater Atlanta Traffic Improvement Association at a meeting set for Monday night.

Advocates of uniform traffic laws insist that such laws would eliminate hundreds of violations now made unconsciously by drivers. With varying speed limits and enforcement procedures, drivers have difficulty conforming to the multiplicity of laws. A uniform and standardized system would be a real convenience to drivers and would insure their co-operation, proponents claim.

Bank Executive Fails To Identify Rob Suspect

Edgar Arthur Orr, 32, of a Gordon Street, S. W., address, was released yesterday after an Atlanta bank executive failed to identify him in a beating and robbery on Feb. 19, Fulton County Police Chief G. Neal Ellis said last night.

The bank executive, Paul M. Denning, returned to Atlanta from a trip to Tennessee to view Orr, Ellis said. He arrived shortly after noon yesterday and said Orr was not the man who beat him with a blackjack and took his auto three weeks ago.

Orr was detained for questioning after he admitted meeting Denning in a Forsyth Street beer parlor last December and going with him to a tourist camp on the Roosevelt Highway where Denning resides, Ellis said. The Chief added Orr had told of seeing Denning since the first meeting and of spending the night at the tourist camp about three weeks ago.

Witnesses at Duluth failed to identify Orr as the man who abandoned Denning's auto there the day after the bank executive was beaten and left for dead on Bankhead Avenue, N. W., near Carroll Street.

Map Plans To Improve Auditorium

The Buildings and Grounds Committee of City Council yesterday ordered cost estimates for the installation of elevators and air conditioning at Municipal Auditorium. The committee also decided to continue present rental schedules at the Auditorium despite several requests that they be reduced.

R. L. Lamb, Auditorium Manager, was instructed to investigate costs for air conditioning and for elevators. He estimated the figure would range upwards of $150,000.

After a protracted argument, the Committee stood solidly behind its rental schedule, refusing to cut a four-day engagement for the Thomas P. Hinman Mid-Winter Clinic for Dentists. The organization will pay the regular fee $1,225 from receipts of the exhibition.

The Home Builders' Association of Atlanta did gain a slight concession for a show slated for April 5-14 because it proposes to use portions of the Auditorium Annex which has not yet been completed. Rentals would have amounted to $3,250 for the show, but because of the fact that the annex will not have all its facilities by that time, the figure was reduced to $2,700.

Councilman John A. White, committee member, argued that fees should be cut for organizations and exhibitions designed to bring delegates to the City. He said fees are too high and should be reduced. Lamb and others said fees charged in Atlanta are lower than those of other cities, but all agreed that if any reduction is to be made fees should be lowered rather than breaking down the rental schedule.

The Auditorium has never been self-sustaining and each year, City Council allocates more for operation and maintenance than is collected in fees.

Committee members also recommended that $15,000 be provided to purchase a tract of land near Gilmer Street and Piedmont Avenue, adjoining the City properties.

REV. O. A. BLUMIT
Homes for DPs?

BAPTIST MINISTER RETURNS

Homes Here Sought For Lithuanian DP's

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

The Rev. Oswald A. Blumit, Latvian-born Baptist minister, who first came to Atlanta in 1939 as Lithuania's official delegate to the Baptist World Alliance, is back in town with a new mission: To find sponsors for 200 of his oppressed fellow countrymen who are in German Displaced Persons camps.

Traveling under the auspices of the National Association of Evangelicals in Boston where he has made his home for the last nine years, the stocky, blue-eyed minister is on a nationwide tour to find jobs and homes for 300,000 Lithuanians, Estonians and Latvians.

Two hundred is his Georgia quota—and he has set up headquarters in his room at the Piedmont Hotel for the next five days. He will address a mass meeting of Protestant laymen at 3 p. m. Sunday.

"They are all refugees from Russia and Communism, the 'Delayed Pilgrims,'" declared Mr. Blumit. "I do not wish to contradict your Dr. Louie D. Newton, who is a Baptist, too, but even the most pacifist-minded of us becomes aggressive when we know what is going on in Russia!

"At this very moment both Baptist and other ministers are being questioned, hanged, put to death. I have a brother in a slave labor camp in Siberia. The Rev. August Korp, who was in Atlanta with me in 1939, died last September. The official cause of death was a heart attack—but this heart attack came strangely after he had been questioned and toroured by the police for two days!"

The Rev. Mr. Korp, who spoke at several Atlanta churches during the World Alliance here, wrote a book called "From Darkness to Light," telling of his conversion to Christianity after serving with the Red Army in Russia, Mr. Blumit said.

But the "Delayed Pilgrims," Mr. Blumit would bring to America are, he insists, "not the dregs of the earth" but clean, hard-working families who would become productive citizens. All he asks is that a local sponsor guarantee them housing and employment for a time. A Mississippi farmer recently agreed to sponsor several hundred farm workers. Mr. Blumit has in his [illegible] the authenticated records and photographs of thousands of artisans and professional people, all of whom would take any kind of lawful work to get to this country.

He is particularly eager to find a place in the South for 18 families who are members of a company of actors who presented a pageant of the Baltics to such Allied military leaders as Eisenhower, Montgomery and Winston Churchill. In addition to being actors of note, members of the company have the following vocations: painter decorator, switchboard operator, farmer, economist, upholsterer, domestic, cabinet-maker, photographer, mechanic, presser, locksmith, stage engineer, housekeeper, tailor, forester, librarian, journalist and seedsman.

NINE DPS FOR GA. TO DOCK MONDAY

A contingent of nine displaced persons destined for Georgia will dock at New Orleans Monday. They are among 843 European refugees scheduled to land, most of them assigned to the South.

Most of the new arrivals are farm families Just which County Georgia's nine persons will settle in is not yet known, but Wilkes County some months ago applied for twelve displaced farm families.

Pinza Hints Goodbye to Met

NEW HAVEN. Conn. — (AP) — Ezio Pinza says that it's "perhaps goodbye" for him to his long career in grand opera.

The graying basso of the Metropolitan Opera Company is playing his first role in a musical. He has one of the leading roles in "South Pacific," the new Rodgers-Hammerstein musical which opened here this week.

He said he had no plans to renew his Metropolitan contract.

He said:

"I have always wanted to grow, to change. I had the desire to do something like this—and the opportunity came.

"Maybe later there will be something different again in Hollywood. I have had a contract offer, but I would not commit myself long in advance. Someday I would even like to try straight acting, without any singing at all."

Ex-Jailer Found Slain In Baltimore

BALTIMORE — (AP) — A former jailer from Murphy, N. C., was found dead in his apartment here yesterday, his throat slashed from ear to ear.

He was identified as George Thompson, 50, employed about 14 months on a water tunnel which is being dug under the northern part of the city.

A woman living in an adjoining apartment said she was awakened several times by an argument involving two men and a woman in Thompson's apartment. She said she heard a man and a woman running down the hallway "after a heavy thump which made me sit straight up in bed," about 4 p. m.

Too frightened at first to leave her rooms, Lela Shaver finally aroused another resident of the building and he called police.

They found Thompson, dressed in his heavy woolen sandhog's underwear, lying on the floor amid the fragments of a whiskey bottle. An empty box for a straight-edge razor was found outside his door.

Apparently Thompson had come in from work about 1 a. m. The tunnel digging company said he had been paid $50 yesterday for a short week.

Police said a woman's pocketbook was found in the apartment. It contained no identification material. A handprint was found in the bathroom and there were spots of blood outside the door into the hall.

Mrs. Louise Hughes, Thompson's daughter, said he is divorced and came here about four years ago from Murphy to live with her. He had been jailer at the Cherokee County jail in North Carolina. He moved to the apartment about three months ago.

U. S. POPULATION HIKE AT RECORD

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The United States population, climbing more than 200,000 each month, reached a record 148,000,000 Jan. 1, the Census Bureau has reported.

"Natural increase"—the excess of births over deaths—accounted for 91 percent of the 1948 population rise; immigration for the other 9 percent.

90-Day Rent Control Plan Is Rejected

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Administration squeaked past a major test in the eighty-first Congress yesterday as the House rejected a Republican plan to continue rent controls only 90 more days.

But it was a narrow victory margin — 178 to 163 — that the Democrats scored. And it came only after hard-pressed Administration leaders had offered to lift controls on more than 100 areas if Congress agrees to extend for 15 months the Government's general authority to set rent ceilings.

Bolstered by that vote lure, House Democratic leaders managed to keep enough of their forces in line to defeat the GOP's 90-day extension plan. They pushed ahead then for a final vote on the pending measure to extend the rent law 15 months.

The House measure already was far short of what the Administration asked: a two-year renewal with greater enforcement powers.

WILL HOUSE 46 CHILDREN

Oak Hill Homes Opened With Plaque Unveiling

Unveiling of a monumental plaque during dedication services yesterday afternoon marked the formal opening of Oak Hill Homes, Fulton County's haven for dependent children.

The bronze plaque, mounted on a granite marker in the institution's courtyard, was unveiled by Ivan Allen, Sr., Chairman of the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare, and Fred J. Cliff, representing Post No. 1 of the American Legion, Department of Georgia.

Short talks by Chairman Allen, Vice Chairman James J. Doran and Administrator Wellborn Ellis, of the Welfare Board, described the new cottage-type institution as providing "service and facilities unsurpassed in the nation."

The three completed units of the planned six-building project were built and furnished by Fulton County at a cost of $266,000. The cottages will house 46 children between 6 and 16 years old, referred to the Board for institutional care.

A combination radio-phonograph with records and record cabinet was presented by Miss Sarah Campbell and Mrs. Eugene Barfield, of the Atlanta Council and Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, to Mrs. L. H. Cunningham for the girls' cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham are house parents for the building.

Sports equipment for the boys' cottage was given in behalf of Post No. 1 of the American Legion by Fred J. Cliff, as Chairman of the sponsoring committee. Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Montgomery, house parents, received the gifts for the boys.

Miss Julia F. Pope, Superintendent for the Homes, was introduced together with other personnel. Miss Pope will reside in the receiving cottage and will be assisted by Mrs. Amos Wallace.

The dedication was attended by State, County and City officials; representatives of the two sponsoring organizations, Beta Sigma Phi and American Legion Post No. 1, and members and friends of the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare.

BICYCLE TOUR IS TERMINATED

GOODWATER, Ala.—(AP)—Twelve-year-old John Allen Bearden yesterday had abandoned his plans for a world tour on a bicycle.

The boy traveled 60 miles from his home in New Merkle before he was detained here by Police Chief F. C. Ogburn. John told the chief he had set out on a bicycle "to see the world."

He had been missing from his home since Wednesday morning. He said he slept for a while in Childersburg.

Awaiting the arrival of his parents, John admitted he was pretty tired and the world was "awful big."

Dalton Voters Okay Beer Sales

Constitution State News Service

DALTON—The legal sale of beer within the city limits of Dalton was approved by voters in an election here by a close vote of 1,230 to 1,145.

The vote was much narrower than the wet victory which legalized beer sales Oct. 1, 1947. The count then was 984 compared with 739 against sales.

Tax stamps of three cents per bottle brought $55,000 to the city last year. City Council has raised the tax this year to four cents.

'Screening' Hospital Near Atlanta To Relieve Milledgeville Proposed

State Welfare Director Jack Forrester yesterday disclosed long-range plans for eventual construction of a large new "screening" hospital near Atlanta as part of a "New Deal" for Georgia's mentally ill.

Forrester said a modern mental institution with 700 to 1,000 beds may be built in this area to relieve conditions at Milledgeville State Hospital that have been described as overcrowded and "shocking."

As a part of the long-range plan, Forrester also envisions the construction of two smaller auxiliary units, one in North Georgia and one in South Georgia.

The Director emphasized, however, that development of the expanded mental hospital program is still in the embryonic stage, and that the first step will be to improve the Milledgeville hospital.

The State already has a big start toward an expanded program with an extra $1,000,000 appropriation granted by the recent Legislature in the regular budget for institutional buildings. An additional $1,000,000 appropriation is included in the contingent budget which will be put in force if the people vote for $45,000,000 new taxes in the April 5 referendum.

Preliminary talks already have been held toward obtaining one-third of the cost of a new hospital from Federal funds under the Hill-Burton Act.

A "screening" hospital near Atlanta would receive most of Georgia's mental patients. Many could be treated there and perhaps be cured and released without having to go to Milledgeville. Thus the population at the Milledgeville hospital could be reduced, Forrester said, providing better service, facilities and care for all.

Atlanta would be a likely site for such a unit, he said, because a large number of psychiatrists and other specialists would be available as consultants, in addition to a permanent, full-time staff of doctors.

Your City Hall

By HERMAN HANCOCK

NON-COMMUNIST — Miss Ira Jarrell, City School Superintendent, yesterday led 2,500 school employees in signing a state-required oath that they are not Communists. Swearing fealty to the State and Federal constitutions and repudiating sympathy for Communism was demanded of all employees whose salaries are paid in whole or in part by the state.

CRUSHED BOXES DEMANDED—Stafford W. Graydon, City Health Engineer, announced yesterday he proposes to insist that downtown merchants observe new ordinances requiring them to crush empty card and pasteboard boxes before piling them on the streets for collection by the Sanitary division. The measure was passed to preclude utilizing of the boxes as receptacles for waste. Graydon and other sponsors said it would keep debris from the streets during high winds or heavy rains. He said violators will be notified first. If they fail to comply, cases will be made.

ZONING CHANGES ASKED—The City Planning Commission meeting at 2 p. m. Wednesday will consider several requests for changes in zoning. There are 21 separate petitions, including the rezoning of a stretch on Donnelly Ave., S. W., for a $1,000,000 warehouse development by the L. & N. Railroad, and rezoning for business of a lot at the northeast intersection of Ponce de Leon Avenue and Frederica Place.

Motion Halts Picking Jury In Red Trial

NEW YORK—(AP)—The long, tedious process of picking a jury to try 11 U. S. Communist leaders was sparked yesterday by a defense lawyer's claim that the judge was forcing him to use his challenges "blindly."

This allegation came from Atty. Richard F. Gladstein.

He moved to dismiss 12 prospective jurors remaining in the jury box after Judge Harold R. Medina had completed his two-day examination of jury panel members willing to serve in the lengthy trial.

Gladstein declared "I am obliged to exercise peremptory challenges blindly" on the grounds that Medina had not brought out sufficient information about the "state of mind" of the prospective jury members.

The judge overruled the motion.

As court adjourned later for the weekend, the defense had exercised three of its 15 peremptory challenges and the prosecution one of its six. Thus four other members of the jury panel were brought in to take the place of the four challenged on the "tentative" jury.

As each one of the remaining peremptory challenges is used next week, a new juror will be called into the box and questioned by Medina as to whether he should be excused for cause.

If the judge permits him to stay, he then is subject to dismissal by the defense or the Government as long as they have any challenges left.

Drive Against East Mark Aimed at Soviet Economy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Western Allies have decided to complete the East-West split in blockaded Berlin's economy by driving the Russian-sponsored East mark from their sectors, it was authoritatively reported yesterday.

WORLD TODAY

The plan is not to ban the East mark money but to authorize persons in the Western zones to refuse to accept it. Since they only take it now because they are forced to, this will have the effect of driving it out of circulation.

Decision to put this operation into effect may indicate that hopes of a general Berlin settlement are gone. The currency question has been one of the main issues in the Soviet blockade in Berlin. One West mark is worth four and one-half East marks.

Plans for the North Atlantic Pact to defend the West in the cold war move steadily forward.

In Washington the eight countries negotiating the agreement were reported settled on the final draft. Baron Silvercruys, Belgian ambassador, told newsmen: "It's all fine, agreed and everything."

Ambassadors of the eight countries met with U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson for two hours and twenty minutes Silvercruys said the text probably would be published next Friday.

The Danish Foreign Minister, Gustav Rasmussen, conferred with Acheson and said changes of his country's joining were good.

In Rome Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi announced his government had approved Italy's participation in the alliance. His statement was followed by a sweeping attack on the treaty by Communists and Pro-Communist Socialists.

The pact would link nations outside the iron curtain in a defensive alliance. Diplomatic sources in London said foreign ministers of the signing countries probably would leave for Washington March 26 to complete the formalities.

Meanwhile, there was talk of a supplementary Mediterranean pact which would later be linked with the Atlantic Alliance. In London, diplomatic sources said Russia had asked Turkey's attitude toward such a grouping.

Turkey was reported to have replied that the Mediterranean pact would be defensive in character, would aim to secure peace and security and would not be directed against the Soviet Union.

4 Bandits Loot Hotel In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — Four masked bandits tied up the night clerk, a bellboy and a woman guest at the Embassy Hotel early yesterday and calmly looted the cash drawer and safety deposit boxes of $26,000 in cash and jewelry, police reported.

Robert Metcalf, the clerk, said he was busy when the bandits entred the lobby shortly before 5 a. m.

The bandits forced Metcalf, the bellboy and a young woman guest to lie down on lounges in the lobby and bury their heads in pillows, then took more than an hour to systematically loot the hotel office, Metcalf told police.

Metcalf said he examined the hotel's safety deposit strongbox and found 43 of the 48 boxes left there by guests were missing. He estimated at least $25,000 in cash and jewelry was in the 43 safety deposit boxes.

The bandits took all the contents of the hotel cash drawer—about $1,000—Metcalf reported.

The 100-room hotel is in the heart of the resort hotel district, on the west side of Collins Avenue.

Venable, Morgan Deny Bribe Try From Stand

By DuPONT WRIGHT

Attys. Jimmy Venable and Hubert Morgan, accused of attempting to bribe a member of Sol. Gen. Paul Webb's staff, vehemently denied their guilt yesterday from the witness stand.

They testified as sworn witnesses. Only Venable was cross-examined by Sol. Gen. Webb. Their testimony closed the evidence in the contempt proceedings against them. After both sides complete 45-minute arguments beginning at 9:30 a. m. today, the three-judge tribunal, consisting of Walter C. Hendrix, Bond Almand and Ralph Pharr, will either render its decision or take the case under advisement.

The judges again ruled out of the evidence the wire recording of a conversation in the home on Piedmont Rd., N. E., of Emil Rothschild in which the lawyers allegedly discussed with Rothschild and E. J. Baker a plan to attempt to bribe Jesse Simmons, a member of the Solicitor General's staff.

For the defense, Atty. William G. McRae argued that the recording was inadmissible because it was a record of a privileged communication between lawyer and client.

The judges ruled that there was higher and better evidence of the conversation because Dr. Herman Jones, County Criminologist, had overheard it through earphones. Jones placed the wire recorder in the bedroom of Rothschild, client of Venable and of Morgan and under indictment for receiving stolen goods. Rothschild previously had complained they were getting money from him for the avowed purpose of bribing various Courthouse officials.

Sol. Gen. Webb vigorously urged admittance of the recording.

"It's absurd to argue," he said, "that because a man has been admitted to the Bar that his office may become a breeding place for crime and fraud on the public and the Court. In fairness to these lawyers the recording should be heard; it will either exonerate or convict them, and unless it is heard there will be a shadow over them, if they are acquitted, all their lives."

Venable and Morgan are under indictment for attempted bribery, but the present hearing is on a contempt citation. The theory is that if they attempted bribery they are also in contempt of Court. The Atlanta Bar Asociation joined Webb in presenting the contempt proceedings to the Court.

On the stand Venable said that Rothschild was drinking heavily during the recorded conversation. Both he and Morgan said all the bribery talk was by Rothschild and Rothschild's employee, Baker. Venable said he merely insisted that Rothschild pay $3,500 in attorneys' fees.

"I knew Rothschild wanted me to bribe everybody," said Venable, "but I made it plain I wouldn't be a party to it."

Over the objections of McRae, the tribunal permitted Dr. Jones to testify as to what he heard over ear phones while his recorder was taking down the conversation on a machine planted by him in Rothschild's room. He said Rothschild asked Venable whom he had fixed with the $1,000 he had paid him and that Venable replied: "Everything is all right."

"Did you pay the detectives?" Jones quoted Rothschild as asking. He quoted Venable as replying 'yes.' He also said Venable warned Rothschild and Baker not to talk; that they might all be accused of conspiracy.

"Won't you have to pay Simmons?" Rothschild asked, according to Jones.

Jones said Venable replied: "I'll take care of that."

Lewis Nods Two-Week Coal Strike

WASHINGTON —(AP)— John L. Lewis yesterday called on all soft and hard coal miners east of the Mississippi River to stop work for two weeks.

Lewis said the shutdown—from March 14 to March 28—was to emphasize the miners' "opposition" to appointment of Dr. James Boyd as Director of the Federal Bureau of Mines.

President Truman picked Boyd for the post last year, but the miners' union has been fighting against Senate approval of the appointment.

The Senate has not voted on it. Boyd is serving in the job without pay.

Axis Sally's Counsel Asks For New Trial

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Defense Counsel James J. Laughlin yesterday demanded a new trial for Mildred E. (Axis Sally) Gillars, convicted of treason Thursday by a Federal Court Jury.

Laughlin contended the guilty verdict was contrary to the evidence and that Judge M. Curran made grave errors in his conduct of the trial.

The defense motion, set forth in a 10-page document, will be argued by Laughlin and Prosecutor John M. Kelley before sentence is imposed on Miss Gillars.

Judge Curran has not indicated when he will pronounce sentence, but Laughlin said he expects it a week from today.

The 48-year-old American-born woman was found guilty on only one count of an eight-count indictment listing "overt acts" of treason arising from her wartime broadcasts for Nazi Germany.

She is in the District of Columbia jail awaiting sentence.

Giraud, French Hero, Dies of Food Poisoning

PARIS—(AP)—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, 70, French hero of two World Wars, died last night at a military hospital in Dijon. He had been stricken by food poisoning.

Earlier yesterday the General, retired since the end of World War II, received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

His death was announced at a night session of the National Assembly, the lower house of the French Parliament, by Socialist Deputy Andre Le Troquervice, Assembly President.

During the two wars Giraud escaped six times from German prisons. He received the Medaille Militaire (Military Medal) Thursday. This is France's highest decoration and is generally given only to enlisted men. It is an unusual distinction for an officer to receive it.

Since his retirement, Giraud had been living quietly with his wife and two daughters in Metz, France. He entered the Dijon Hospital this week. His condition was reported much worse this morning, and he received Extreme Unction.

Giraud commanded French forces in North Africa in the 1942-43 Allied invasion and campaign. He resigned in April, 1944, after a quarrel with Gen. Charles De Gaulle, Commander of Free French forces in exile.

In the Battle of France in 1940, Giraud commanded groups of armies in Northern France. He was cited for holding back the Germans until his forces were crushed and he was captured May 21, 1940.

Taken prisoner to Germany, he was finally placed in Koenigstein Fortress, in Saxony, from which he escaped in April, 1942. This escape was one of the most dramatic incidents of his adventurous life.

Reports were that Giraud spent eight months painstakingly weaving together a 65-f rope from small strands of thread sent to him in letters by his wife. The night he slipped down the wall at Koenigstein, he encountered a German sentry. In perfect German, Giraud remarked, "Pretty cold tonight, isn't it my boy?" and strolled on his way whistling.

Red Cross Speaker Seeks Parallel in Marshall Plan

A parallel between the Red Cross and the Marshall Plan was drawn last night by John Sammons Bell, Atlanta attorney, in an address to the business and office buildings divisions of the 1949 Red Cross fund campaign.

"Although the Red Cross is entirely non-political," Bell said in comparing it to the Marshall Plan, "its work abroad is vitally important in creating good will and understanding, and in promoting world peace."

"The Red Cross is an organization of great compassion, which does all in its power to relieve human suffering. It is more than just an organization. It is in essence the spirit of the people," he said.

The speaker cited personal experiences with the Red Cross during his period of overseas duty in World War II. He is Judge Advocate of the Department of Georgia of the American Legion.

Leaders of the two divisions of the campaign which held their kick-off dinner last night are—business division, Frank M. Ridley, Chairman, and Edward D. Smith, Jr., Co-Chairman; office buildings division, G. M. "Pup" Phillips, Chairman, and George H. Brodnax, Jr., Co-Chairman.

GEA Is Told State School System Faces Rocky Road Without Adequate U. S. Aid

By KATHERINE BARNWELL
Constitution Staff Writer

MACON—Georgia's school system "may be headed for the rocks" unless it gets adequate federal aid for education and the full provisions of the minimum foundation program, J. Gorham Garrison, retiring President of the Georgia Education Association, declared last night.

Dr. O. C. Aderhold, new GEA President, who took the gavel from Garrison at the final session of the 82d annual convention here, also stressed the dire need of more funds for education.

Dr. Aderhold said Georgia "cannot take its proper place in the nation" because (1) its education program does not induce the best young people to enter teaching, (2) its school plants are in many instances "a social disgrace" and (3) its university system, built to serve 8,000 students, has an enrollment of more than 25,000.

Garrison, stressing the need for federal funds, declared:

"Continued delay in providing them may be disastrous. Without adequate Federal aid for education and the provisions of Georgia's minimum foundation program, fully financed, our school system may be headed for the rocks. With these supports, we shall see an era of unprecedented development of human resources."

Earlier yesterday, Dr. J. Elmer Morgan, Editor of the National Education Association Journal, called federal aid to education "imperative."

"States with the least wealth," he said, "have the most children. They are unable to educate these children properly."

Dr. Morgan pointed out that Georgia has 259 children for each 1,000 adults, while the country as a whole has 207 children per 1,000. He added income tax payments per child of school age are nearly $10,000 in New York—but only $3,116 in Georgia.

He blamed "economic centralization for the inability of some states to finance adequately their public schools, explaining:

"Great corporations with assets running into billions of dollars feed on the entire country, but pay their taxes in the great financial centers."

Dr. Morgan said he believed the Federal - Aid - to - Education Bill would be reported out of Congressional committee "in a week or two." He predicted that it would pass.

The NEA editor urged the 2,500 Georgia educators meeting here to "fight" for the Minimum Foundation Program of Education. He told them to brush the chalk dust from their sleeves and act as missionaries in making the people aware of their children's needs.

The urgent need for an extensive school building program in Georgia was stressed by Fred Ayers, President of the Georgia Association of School Administrators, and Pendleton Mitchell, director of school house building for the Department of Education. They said a survey shows a need of $124,000,000 for school buildings over the State, with only $27,000,000 in local funds available for their construction.

Dr. M. D. Collins, State School Superintendent, said Georgians "wouldn't keep their cows" in some of the terrible buildings now housing school children.

Dr. J. I. Allman, Assistant State Superintendent, explained the provisions of the Minimum Foundation Law and scotched rumors that it was unfair to any school system or education group. He promised a "fair and equitable" administration of the law.

W. S. Smith, of Folkston, was elected President of the Georgia Association of School Superintendents, Board Members and Trustees, succeeding Gordon R. Holstun. State Supt. Collins was elected Secretary.

Educators and laymen here organized a Georgia chapter of the National Horace Mann League to promote higher ideals of education. William Henry Shaw, of Columbus, was elected President of the League, which works vigorously for the separation of church and state in administrating the nation's schools. O. L. Amsler, of Decatur, was named Vice President, and Harvey C. Cutts, of Greenville, Secretary.

SPEL INGLISH LAIK THIS?

LONDON—(AP)—The House of Commons has rejected a bill which would have had Englishmen spel Inglish laik this.

By vote of 87 to 84, the House turned thumbs down on Linguist Mont Follick's spelling reform measure. Most of the members left for the weekend before the vote was taken.

Education Minister George Tomlinson had asked the House to kill the Follick bill—which, among other things, would have made its sponsors name come out "Folik."

"Very few people," said Tomlinson, "have the opportunity to ride a hobby horse for 40 years and then bring it to the House of Commons."

Visitor Kills Himself In Corridor of Capitol

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An elderly, gray-haired man suddenly drew a pistol and shot himself to death yesterday afternoon in a Capitol corridor just outside the public galleries of the Senate.

Papers in his pockets indicated he was Thomas C. Williams, 979 LaFayette Ave., Buffalo, N. Y. They gave his age as 70.

He fired the shot into the left side of his chest near his heart. Thirty minutes later he was declared dead by a doctor.

Only a few people heard the shot fired. But word quickly spread through the Capitol. On the Senate floor Sen. McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, was speaking in the debate over the anti-fillibuster issue.

The Senate went on with its business. Joseph D. Chittenden, one of the doorkeepers to the gallery, said the man had been standing in the corridor for about an hour. He did not get inside to listen to the Senate.

Capitol police found an envelope clutched in the man's hand. Howard Beckley, superintendent of the Senate press gallery, said it read:

"My body is to be turned over to—College of Medicine or to a hospital (veterans preferred).

"I am a World War I veteran. My heart and brain is to be cut out and given to my brother, Arthur."

VALUE OF LOVE

LONDON—(AP)—Stanley L. Howard won a life "pension" of 2 pounds sterling ($8) a week yesterday from the man who stole his wife's love. He also got a divorce from his mate, Violet.

The court ordered James E. Pritchard, the co-respondent, to pay the costs of the case as well as the damage award to Howard, a seriously wounded war veteran.

Uncomfortable Signs

Most informed sources in this country lean to the belief that recent Soviet shakeups mean stiffening resistance to the West.

This view would seem to be strengthened by the new Russian budget, calling for the largest expenditure for arms since the war, combined with rumors from Poland that former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is expected to be assigned to coordinate the defense system of the Iron Curtain countries.

Russia's new defense budget calls for roughly $15,000,000,000 to be spent for arms. That is approximately the same as the projected expenditure in this country for the next fiscal year.

Actually, however, no comparison is possible because of many factors, the chief among which are: First, there is no basis for comparison of what defense funds will buy in the two countries; second, Russian expenditures for armaments may not—in fact, most likely are not—all included in the defense fund, and third, the arms spending of satellite states is not included in the figures.

Russia's total budget runs to about $83,000,000,000—nearly twice President Truman's proposed budget for this country. The largest single item is $30,400,000,000 for "national economy." This could mean anything, including construction of atomic bomb plants, for instance.

The rumor from Poland ties in perfectly with the shift of Molotov and Mikoyan from duties involving outside diplomacy. The announcement that the Soviet had adopted the largest military budget in recent history followed the personnel changes by only a few days.

Molotov's release as Foreign Minister obviously was not a demotion. He remains Deputy Premier and a member of the Politburo, which really runs Russia.

If the Kremlin now has, as many observers believe, abandoned any hope of achieving world domination by negotiation and has turned back to the old Marxist formula of revolution by violence, it would be only natural that preparations should be placed in the hands of an old, reliable revolutionary—such as Molotov.

If that be true, it is, indeed, an ominous sign.

It's Better To Know

A resident of Washington, D. C., has sued a baby sitters' organization for $105,000, alleging that his six-month-old daughter was beaten and bruised by one of the agency's sitters.

As for the sitter, she has already been fined for assault in the case, so the man seems to have some grounds for civil action.

Whether or not he collects a cent, there's a lesson in the situation.

Although we can't forget that in the good old days the folks took the kids along, we do believe in baby sitters.

We think they're a fine institution. Indeed, we sympathize with those who ply the trade, for we know how at times a sitter is sorely tempted to take a hand to her little charges.

But for us it's hard to understand how parents can go off and leave their children with a stranger from an agency.

Better know your sitters and let them be well tried before you entrust them with your most precious possession.

Why Can't They Be Reasonable, Too?

Out of the arguments surrounding the proposal to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act have come suggestions for certain changes which may be desirable.

But so far we fail to see any proof that the entire act should be repealed and substituted by a doctored version of the Wagner Act.

The public will recollect that when Congress, goaded by intense labor strife, was considering new labor legislation, union leaders refused to have any suggestions to make. They declined to concede that anything better was needed. The Wagner Act gave them full freedom to do pretty much as they pleased. It placed upon them none of the normal responsibilities of contracting parties. But it heaped responsibilities upon employers.

Because union leaders were unwilling to hear to any changes in this obviously one-sided act, Congress went along without their counsel and passed the Taft-Hartley Act.

This law has worked well. Strikes have been reduced and labor unrest has been a great deal less in the 18 months or so it has operated than in the similar period before its adoption.

Certain amendments, however, appear to be desirable. Experience has shown, for instance, that the necessity of holding union shop elections after that has been agreed to by the contracting parties is pretty much wasted expense.

Sen. Taft, coauthor of the bill, also has agreed that strikers should be allowed to vote in an NLRB election unless the strike had been called in support of an unfair labor practice.

Sen. Taft's conclusion came after he had heard evidence that denial of this right to economic strikers could be used by unscrupulous employers to break a union.

That, we submit, is a fair attitude. If union leaders would show the same reasonableness, not only would much time be saved, but better legislation would result.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Will the GOP Scuttle Rent Control?

WASHINGTON—It is difficult to understand the Republican opposition to extension of Federal rent controls. The housing situation being what it is, there is still the danger of certain unscrupulous landlords boosting rents for all the traffic will bear, if controls are suddenly eliminated.

This is a danger that will continue until we overcome the present housing shortage. Considering the millions of our people who are tenants, it would seem to be political dynamite for the Republicans to bear the responsibility of defeating an extension of the existing controls.

And yet the Republicans are out to kill the Administration's program for extension of rent controls. After a mass meeting of GOP Congressmen on the subject the other day, House Republican Leader Joe Martin announced that members of his party overwhelmingly supported the idea of ending the Federal controls and turning the problem over to the States. He said they would fight any extension of controls for more than 90 days, which would be equivalent to no law at all.

That is the sort of opposition that is responsible for the Republican party being where it is today. It is the same attitude that led to the scuttling of OPA price controls in 1946. Throughout the years of the Roosevelt regime Republicans—not all of them, but a majority, it seemed—fought practically all of the forward-looking measures intended for the general welfare. Anything the Democrats proposed, they set out to oppose.

Often their methods take an indirect course. Rather than oppose a measure outright, they seek to destroy its effectiveness by offering scuttling amendments—amendments that are intended to defeat the purposes of the act or program.

The same tactics are being employed in the Senate in connection with the Administration's housing bill. Sen. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, one of the Republican old guardsmen, is proposing an amendment to the measure providing that no part of the funds shall go to housing projects which tolerate segregation. He would have all such projects open to occupancy by both races.

Obviously an amendment of that kind would defeat the whole housing program. It is doubtful that many communities, either in the South or elsewhere, would take advantage of the Government funds for building housing facilities on that basis. Sen. Bricker knows that, of course. What he is doing is trying to defeat the housing program, believing, no doubt, that such projects should be left to what has come to be called "free enterprise."

Free enterprise, as most people of this political philosophy see it, means freedom to exploit the public to whatever extent the public will stand for. That was the hue and cry that went up when the campaign was on to eliminate OPA controls. The National Association of Manufacturers, which led the campaign, wanted to be free to charge as high prices for their products as the market would bear.

There is a close relation between the problem of rent controls and public housing. Controls over rents should not be relinquished until the housing shortage is met. The Government is seeking to alleviate the shortage by proposing an extensive building program, offering inducements for persons to come in and develop projects with Government funds. Many Republicans are opposing both propositions.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey sounded a warning to the members of his party at his Lincoln Day address here back in February. It was to the effect that the Republican Party would have to stop being the party of opposition merely for the sake of opposition.

Evidently little heed is being paid to the Dewey warning. If the Republicans in Congress continue to oppose every measure offered by the Democratic Administration of a general welfare character, they will succeed only in building up a record that will come back to haunt them when the next national election rolls around. The people have a way of not forgetting these things. And even if they did, there is little chance that the Democrats will let them.

By opposing extension of rent controls now House GOP Leader Martin is merely building up ammunition for the Democrats at the next election. The pity of it is that the Republicans find it difficult to learn.

Some Pictures Made in 1945

I saw this young man sitting out there in the reception room and I got angry with myself because neither his name nor the place I'd met him would come out of the caves of memory and make themselves known.

It was not until he came in that I had it and blurted out: "Honolulu!"

Whereupon Frank Wells—for it was none other than he, as the old-fashioned novelists phrased it—grinned and took from an envelope some pictures made in the Navy Public Relations office in April, 1945, including George Griffin, Dean of Men at Georgia Tech, and Wilbur Forrest, Associate Editor of The Herald Tribune, in New York.

"I thought you'd like to have them," he said.

Dizzy I would. And am grateful. I look a little dizzy in the photographs, which were taken around 11 o'clock on the morning of April 27. As a matter of fact, I was excited and happy and relaxed on nothing stronger than a cablegram and a Coca-Cola. I had, after long trying, managed to get the cablegram the evening before within a few hours after arrival in Honolulu from Australia, via New Caledonia, the Fijis, Christmas Island and Canton Island. The cablegram was from Jack Tarver and The Atlanta Constitution, and it read: "Baby boy, weight six pounds, seven ounces, looks like you, but is healthy." The cablegram was two days old.

Beat Up I was old enough as it was, but I felt much older, being considerably beat up from the long journey from Australia in an old converted B-26 bomber and a seat in which the legs had to be extended upward across baggage, or tucked back in under the seat. It was not possible to sit for long in either position and I had not really slept for about 48 hours. I had been sweating out the arrival of that cablegram for a long time. When you know the approximate date from information earlier at hand, received in India, and know, too, there is to be a Caesarean operation, you are not exactly at ease mentally. Sitting there in the long nights over the Pacific, looking out at the overcast below and the moon overhead, encountering rain squalls that roar on the metal sides of the aircraft which join with the motors in a snarling, tearing symphony, and flung about by the winds in them—there was a long time for thinking and worrying.

Story I recall that when we finally got away from the airport 25 miles out from Brisbane, after a 14-hour delay because of a bad engine, I was putting my mind on other things. I had in my bag a large metal movie-film can filled with big, sweet red peppers. An Australian woman, a driver in the American motor pool at Brisbane, had asked me to mail them to a Major in Denver who had been in Australia and with whom she had had an alliance, so to speak. After driving us out and learning of the delay, she went back for them. She was a plain woman of about 35, and she was not mean or wicked. She had no regrets. She and the Major had had a good time and she counted the memory of it as pleasant. She was not like some of the younger ones, angry and bitter, claiming they had been deceived. I was going to try to do a story about it, and there in the aircraft I was trying to outline it.

Confiscated When we got to Honolulu the agricultural inspectors confiscated the peppers. I wrote the Major a letter telling him why he would get no sweet peppers from the woman in Australia, but I never heard from him. I hope she did.

We landed at Honolulu about five o'clock and it was seven before we got cleared and in quarters. It took me five telephone calls to get the cablegram. Then I spent an hour trying to locate Harold Martin, then in the Marines, and according to the last word I had, on one of the islands. I painstakingly called every Marine Corps detachment with no luck. It wasn't until I got home I learned he had been sent on to some of the islands where the fighting then was going on.

Sleep The next morning, after nine hours' sleep, I felt wonderful. There were about nine persons there for dinner before we took off that night and flew through the night to San Francisco. I got a ship out of there that night and made it down through the West to Texas and on up through Mississippi to Birmingham, where we got weathered in. We took off at 6 a. m. and Tarver met me at the Atlanta airport and drove me on out for my first look at the boy who looked like me but was healthy. Anyhow, that's why I looked dizzy in the pictures.

I never have written that story. George Griffin is back at Tech. Frank Wells is farming and going to Ag school. The boy is trying to have the measles.

Signs of Creeping Mediocrity

WASHINGTON—A President has every right to choose as his principal subordinates men whom he knows and likes and trusts. Yet, as some sage has remarked, Government is people. And the plain fact is that the Government is showing more and more symptoms of a disease which might be described as creeping mediocrity. Moreover, these symptoms are beginning to appear at the really vital points.

One vital point is the National Security Council. The National Security Council is the Government's highest policy-making body. In the past, it has advised the President on a whole series of great issues, from American policy in the Far East to whether or not to knuckle under to the Soviets in Berlin, and the President has almost invariably accepted the advice. Clearly a great deal—a very great deal—depends on the quality of this advice. And this in turn depends in large measure on the quality of the men who are members of the Council.

Council The three Defense Secretaries are now to be dropped from the Council. Therefore, the Council is likely to have only four full members, aside from the President himself. These are Secretary of State Dean Acheson; Louis A. Johnson, when he becomes Secretary of Defense; Mon C. Wallgren, if the Senate confirms him as Chairman of the National Security Resources Board, and Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder, whom the President has ordered to attend all Council meetings.

There is nothing mediocre about Dean Acheson, who has already proved himself a brilliant Secretary of State. But the same thing can hardly be said of the cautious, undistinguished John Snyder, who is one of the leading advocates of a business-as-usual policy. And if it is difficult to see how Snyder is qualified to participate in the making of policy at the highest level, it is downright impossible to discern the qualifications of Mon C. Wallgren, the President's poker partner.

Wallgren may not be confirmed, although the unedifying spectacle of the filibuster against him by Sen. Harry P. Cain, one of the least valuable members of the Senate, may win him support. But the fact remains that there is absolutely nothing in Wallgren's background to qualify him for membership in the National Security Council, other than geniality and the friendship of the President.

Question Mark The big question mark is the fourth prospective Council member, Louis A. Johnson. Johnson will now have the third most important job in the country. He is, undoubtedly, a man of force and ability. He has the reputation of being a tough, ruthless driver, with no compunctions about knocking heads together. No doubt certain Pentagon heads could be knocked together to the national advantage.

Yet Johnson's forthcoming role as one of the chief architects of national policy does not inspire undiluted confidence. There is little in his background to fit him for the role. Like the President's former court jester, George Allen, Johnson has had close connections with the financial operator, Victor Emmanuel, a shrewd cultivator of political contacts. Johnson has also been a big-time American Legion politician. He will undoubtedly give the defense departments a strong American Legion coloration—he has already picked his friend, Paul Griffith, like himself a former Legion commander, as his chief assistant. Another friend and enthusiastic supporter is Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, the President's bumbling military aide.

What is least confidence inspiring about Johnson's appointment is simply that it was frankly political—a reward for services rendered as chief money-raiser for the Truman campaign. The Secretaryship of Defense is thus placed in the same category as an assistant postmastership.

All this does not mean that Johnson may not turn out to be an effective Secretary of Defense and a useful member of the National Security Council. Yet it is certainly not reassuring that of the four prospective members of the nation's highest policy-making body, one is a very able man, two are amiable mediocrities, and the fourth is a frankly political appointment.

Insurance Fortunately, this prospective make-up of the Council is not really as disturbing as it may appear. Acheson's presence on the Council, and the fact that very able men serve the Council on its lower echelons, where most policy is actually made, are together a sort of life insurance. Yet the symptoms of creeping mediocrity are clear.

These symptoms are not confined to the National Security Council. The new Congress has been transformed into something like a barrel of eels largely as a consequence of thoroughly ineffective administration leadership. Yet the United States can still afford, as it always has, a good deal of mediocrity and incompetence and courthouse politics in the domestic field. What the United States cannot afford is mediocrity and incompetence in its response to the world situation. And that is now a clear and present danger.

Lewis To Demand Work-Spread Coal Plan

WASHINGTON—Miners' czar John L. Lewis is readying a new demand on the coal industry. This consists of an elaborate plan to spread work in the mines so as to insure a steady minimum income for Lewis' United Mine Workers.

The formula, already in partial operation in the anthracite fields, will be laid before the operators May 1. The existing bituminous contract expires June 30, and under the law Lewis must give the operators 60 days' notice before filing new demands. It is reliably reported that he does not intend to ask a wage increase, but will concentrate on bulwarking the pay and welfare gains the miners have won in recent years.

Lewis' work-spreading plan consists of two main features: the first calls for management-miner committees to fix weekly coal production schedules; and the other apportions to each mine and individual miner an equal share of this weekly output.

The basic guide for determining the amount of coal to be produced would be consumer demand. Production would keep pace with the level of this demand.

Associates of Lewis declared that he has long favored a work-spreading system, but that he was prompted to push it this Spring because of the marked decline in coal sales. A combination of heavy decreases in coal exports to Europe and an unusually mild Winter in the Eastern section of the U. S. has caused a serious slump in the coal industry. Operators report record-breaking stockpiles on their properties.

According to UMW officials, some operators already have expressed willingness to accept the work-spreading plan if it is not in violation of the antitrust laws. This legal question Lewis is said to be preparing to meet by special legislation. During the Roosevelt administration, the so-called Guffey Act, sponsored by former Sen. Joe Guffey, of Pennsylvania, was enacted to give the coal industry special legal safeguards.

Lewis is now back in Washington after a protracted absence due to ill health. His associates say he is in "good shape." He has lost considerable weight and is much grayer than previously.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned. Address all letters to Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Cigarette Prices

Editor Constitution: I notice from a news item by Albert Riley in a recent Constitution that Sen. Gus Stark says that cigarette prices have not been raised out in the State. Now let's look at the facts and see whether or not they have been raised.

I am a small country merchant and before this cigarette law was passed I was paying one wholesaler $1.69 per carton for cigarettes and another wholesaler $1.71 per carton. Now either or both of these wholesalers charge me $1.76. If this is not an increase, what is it?

Before this law was passed I was selling cigarettes at $1.85 per carton. Now under the law I have to sell at $1.91. Is not this an increase? As I see it, the catch in this so-called fair trade law has benefited the wholesale tobacco dealers who sponsored it.

Surely Sen. Stark has intelligence enough to see that prices have been raised in some cases and profits have been cut in others . . . if he hasn't he certainly should not be in the Senate.

FRED AUSTIN,
Kenwood.

People's Folly

Editor Constitution: I see where some of our legislators admit voting for this unconstitutional cigarette law by the excuse that the bill was presented in a hurry and they voted for it without first reading it. These gentlemen publicly admit they are unfit to represent the people of this great State. The very people who now scream about this law elected these men. Keep on electing men who vote for a law they don't even know about and we awake some morning with a hangman waiting with the rope to hang us to the first tree legally. It is folly to have to pay men of this caliber as our representatives. In my opinion, every man who voted for this bill doesn't understand our Constitution or on what ground this country got as big as it is. Every one should be defeated at the next election.

H. G. HEYDT.
Boston.

'Mistake'

Editor Constitution: Our Southern representatives in the Congress are making a mistake in instituting a filibuster at this time when so much needed legislation in the interest of the common people should be passed without further delay. It may be a good idea for them to remember that most members of the Eightieth Congress were unseated in the last election and I believe that was due to the dilatory tactics they adopted toward this same legislation.

Harry Truman made known to the American people the legislation he desired and would support in the Eighty-first Congress and the people re-elected him with the hope that he would be able to carry out his campaign promises, and I feel the Congress should assist him in his mandate to the people.

The now proposed antilynch law, antisegregation law and FEPC bill would not, if passed, stand the test of the courts and I, therefore, see no reason for tying the Congress up with a filibuster. We still have a Constitution.

Our Southern representatives formed a coalition with the Northern Republicans in the Seventy-ninth and Eightieth Congresses and were successful in defeating the Democratic program, and if this is going to continue the South may as well turn Republican and support the Republican political philosophy instead of that of the Democrats.

The truth of the matter is that if the Truman program is carried through the benefits will go to the poorer classes at the expense of those that are able to bear the burden and rather than see this happen some of our representatives would tie the Congress up so as to prevent the passage of such legislation.

Sales Tax

Editor Constitution: I note the photos of the big leaguers that are to be in the line-up of this big State-wide ball game of April 5. I have reference to the sales tax game to be decided on this date. I don't see the ex-Speaker of the House among your front-page headliners shown in a recent picture and I think he certainly should be there.

Our antisales tax team has some strong arms and heavy hitters and we feel sure of knowing the visible weak points of these big leaguers and are going after this game for the merchants, the farmers, the housewives and all the common hard-working folks of Georgia (including the schoolteachers). We are now guarding against taking any sales tax sleeping pills so we will be very much awake on the day of April 5 and also stay awake for all these very important exhibition games to be played on this issue between now and then. We are going to work hard for this game as the winner takes all and we merchants, housewives, farmers, schoolteachers, bus drivers and the common working men, women, boys and girls need a clear-cut victory to keep our team with living conditions without a skyrocketing of prices.

Blakely. MACK STRICKLAND.

Progressive Unit

Editor Constitution: The well organized, progressive and efficient Construction Department of the City of Atlanta has built another mark of progress in our city, and is proof that Atlanta is forging ahead. This mark is the underpass at Boulevard and Decatur Streets, where the most modern system of reinforced concrete viaduct has been constructed, and is the last word in art, strength, durability and economy.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY

(Eatonton Messenger)

At long last one of the national magazines gave the South a break on race relationship. For these many years these magazines' sense of news have led them to select for publication only those stories of the South's bad treatment of the Negro. They found their greatest delight in a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan, the flogging of a convict or incidents in which the Negroes were mistreated by the whites.

In the current issue of Readers' Digest, however, there appears a story written by a North Carolina Negro insurance executive in which he states the South is the land of opportunity. Instead of relating incidents of his race being mistreated, he tells of the many times members of the white race befriended him and helped him along the way. Doubtlessly, many Northerners will be surprised to know that such ever happened below the Mason-Dixon line.

"A preacher should be a first-class door bell ringer," Elder Melvin K. Eckenroth, of Washington, D. C., officer in the world organization of Seventh Day Adventists, told a group of more than 100 ministers and their wives here during a Seventh Day Adventist Council Thursday.

Elder Eckenroth emphasized the need for "friendly churches" when he recommended that a minister make between 10 and 15 calls a day. "Ministers who make friends with their communities will not have to worry about half-empty churches," he said.

Elder I. H. Evans, of Atlanta, President of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference which sponsored the council, pointed out that "two-thirds of the population of eight Southern States is unchurched."

'NEW LEASE ON LIFE'

Britisher Cites High Peak Of Soviet Spiritual Life

By MARJORY SMITH

Russia is far from having religious freedom—but "there is more real religion and spiritual life in Russia today than at perhaps any previous period in history."

Col. C. J. Miles, Britisher who serves as International Secretary of the oldest evangelical mission working among Russians and other Slavic peoples, made that assertion here yesterday.

Col. Miles, in Atlanta for two addresses before the Tabernacle Bible Conference, declared that on his last visit to Russia last year the First Baptist Church in Moscow was baptizing 300 converts and the Soviet Union's 3,500 Baptist churches were "full to suffocation."

"A few years ago, no religious literature could be published in Russia; today the All-Union Council of Evangelical Christians-Baptists puts out its 48-page "Fraternal Messenger bi-monthly," he reported. "Although no Sunday Schools are permitted, any 20 persons may be registered as a church and have a meeting place allocated to them. The Greek Orthodox Church, purged by persecution, has taken a new lease on life."

The shift in Russia's diplomatic high command "definitely does not mean any change in Russia's inexorable policy," the minister said.

"All of us who see anything from the inside know Molotov has been advanced to support Stalin and practically to act as his deputy as Stalin ages and needs to conserve his strength," Col. Miles added. "The recent appointments fall into line with that pattern."

Now a resident of Chicago, the visitor served as Senior Chaplain of the Australian Imperial Forces during World War II in Egypt, Gallipoli, and the Sinai Peninsula. He has served as International Secretary of the Slavic Missionary Society since 1929.

The Police Blotter

ROBBERY—W. L. Crawford, of 668 Sommerset Ter., N. E., said yesterday he was robbed of $60 by three white youths he met at a Ponce de Leon drive-in. The trio invited him into an auto to have a bottle of beer, Crawford related, and then drove away in the direction of Stone Mountain. He said the youths beat him and robbed him when he complained of them driving too fast. He was treated at Grady Hospital for bruises and lacerations.

BURGLARY—Police yesterday questioned the judgment of yeggmen who broke into the Wallace Grocery Store at 127 Walnut St., N. W. The intruders took about $5 in silver and an old flashlight. They dumped approximately $50 in pennies from a box over the floor and then left without molesting anything else.

EXCHANGE—If the lady with a brown muskrat coat several sizes too large will contact Dets. E. H. Harkins and O. W. Allen she can exchange the coat for a snug fit. Miss Ruth Sratzcher, of 711 Penn Ave., N. E., said she took off a muskrat coat size 16 in a restaurant at Tenth Street and Peachtree Street yesterday while eating. She found later someone had taken her coat and left a brown muskat, size 12 and much shorter.

FISHING PARTY—Police yesterday were searching for a fisherman, but not one who uses the conventional rod and reel to haul in his prizes. Their suspect took a wire and fished $60 out of a locked strong box at the Krystal Company, 32 Marietta St., N. W.

VICIOUS DOGS — Patrolmen W. D. Welden and C. B. Dickerson believed explicitly yesterday a complaint of vicious dogs running loose on Thomas St., N. W. Margaret Williams, 17, Negro, of 216 Maple St., N. W., said one of the dogs bit her on the leg. Dorothy L. Stephens, 18, Nego, of 204 Maple Street, said they nipped her on the hand. The patrolmen went to investigate and they said the dogs set upon them. Pals Convinced

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(UP)—John C. McDowell is the kind of fisherman who usually returns with a nice catch when the others have to stop by the market before returning to their wives. His pals always called it "fisherman's luck" until they looked in his tackle box and found a small horseshoe, a rabbit's foot, a four-leaf clover and a wishbone.

New York Cotton Drops Under Persistent Selling

NEW YORK— (AP) —Cotton futures were under persistent pressure of liquidation Friday, influenced by easiness in other markets, further curtailment of textile production and the absence of new export business. Final prices were 25 to 50 cents a bale lower. Most of trading centered in the old crop deliveries. Selling there was well absorbed through mill buying and covering against export sales.

Liquidation, Selling Drops N. O. Cotton

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Cotton futures declined Friday under week-long liquidation and selling in sympathy with weakness in other commodity markets. Closing prices were steady 30 cents to 45 cents a bale lower.

Some of the selling was due to a further increase in the certificated stocks at all delivery points which now amounts to 35,776 bales. March notices amounted to 200 bales in the local market and there were promptly stopped by a leading spot house.

Rails' Rally Gives Zip to Stock Market

NEW YORK—(AP)—A sharp rally in rail issues Friday carried the stock market higher.

Rails made their best advance in more than three months with gains of fractions to nearly 4 points among the leaders.

Steels, motors and oils shared in the forward movement with advances running from fractions to more than 2 points. There were generous gains elsewhere in the list, and declines were scattered.

The rally broke a week-long period of dullness marked by a low volume of trading and small price changes.

Some Wall Street sources saw in the performance the beginning of the long awaited Spring rally and pointed to the fact that the rails are expected to spearhead the drive from their very low levels of recent weeks.

Chartists were inclined to that view because of their belief that no substantial market move upward at this time can be accomplished without participation of the railroads.

Such sentiment was not unanimous, however, with others willing to wait and see whether Friday's action constituted an adjustment, or was the beginning of a forward movement.

Volume was 1,070,000 shares, a considerable jump from yesterday's 630,000 and the best since Feb. 7.

Prices, especially in the rails, seemed to respond to modest buying, and volume expanded on the rise. When quotations stood still or dipped, volume dwindled.

A considerable portion of the volume was in Commonwealth & Southern, the day's most active issue with 120,500 shares traded. Much of this was in blocks of 10,000 and 15,000 shares. It closed at 3⅝, up ⅛, a new high for the year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .7 of a point, the best daily gain since Jan. 6. It stood at 63.8, its highest point in more than a month.

The rail component of the average advanced 1.1, the best gain since Dec. 1. Industrials were up .6 of a point and utilities declined .1 of a point.

The market was fairly broad with 969 issues on the quotation tape. Of these, 586 advanced and 172 declined.

Stocks in the Curb Market did fairly well with the volume at 210,000 shares against 170,000 Thursday.

Buying Picks Up In Bond Market

NEW YORK—(AP)—Buying perked up in the bond market Friday and railroad issues pushed forward in an emphatic display of strength.

At the start of the final hour a number of rail obligations had advanced high fractions to more than a point. Gains were running ahead of losses by better than two to one.

Missouri Pacific liens attracted buyers' attention and at one time four of the system's issues had gained a point or more and two others were up fractionally. New York Central and New Haven Railroad bonds reflected demand.

U. S. Government bonds were unchanged in over-the-counter trading. Two infrequently exchange-traded issues were sold at fairly wide price changes Friday, allowing the exchange price to catch up with that of the private bondhouse transactions.

Foreign dollar bonds moved sluggishly. Australian issues showed some weakness.

Selling Flurry Hits Grain Prices

CHICAGO—(AP)—A midmorning selling flurry left grains, soybeans and lard with fairly large losses on the board of trade Friday. The market recovered a bit from its extreme lows, but did not show any great rallying ability.

Selling started in soybeans, which fell more than 7 cents at one time. Corn lost more than 3 cents while wheat was down as much as four cents when the day's lows were touched. Oats, rye and lard followed the downturn in other commodities.

Reports that more wheat was moving out of producing areas in the Southwest, an expansion in bookings of cash corn to more than 100,000 bushels and an easier tone in the soybean oil market contributed to a generally bearish atmosphere.

In the background were the doubts which many grain analysts have expressed about the ability of the Government support program to hold up this year if big crops are harvested.

Wheat closed 2 to 2¾ lower, May $2.13¾-2.14, corn was 1½-2⅜ lower, May $1.30¼-1.30, oats were ¼-⅝ lower, May 66⅝-¾, rye was ½-1¼ lower, May $1.27½, soybeans were 4 to 5½ lower, March $2.29¾-2.30, and lard was 20 to 30 cents a hundred pounds lower, March $12.12.

Gil Coan Gets Try At Regular Nat Job

The Saturday Sports Serenade:

Two-Ton Tony Galento says he has his own tuxedo in accepting an invitation to attend the senior prom at the University of Washington. . . . The last time Tony was in Seattle he wrestled an octopus, which died two days later. . . . Gil Coan, the former Chattanooga star, apparently is being given first crack again for Washington's left-field job. . . . Gil has never lived up to the promise he showed in the Southern League. . . . The other day down at Vero Beach, Branch Rickey was lauding the ability of Cal Abrams, who was with Mobile last season. . . . In the midst of his boss man's praise, Cal watches a third strike go by and a few minutes later failed to run out a pop fly in front of the plate and was thrown out at first. . . . Ralph Joiner, business manager of the Newnan All-Stars, a semipro club, is seeking games in the Atlanta area. . . . Anybody interested can contact him at 9 LaGrange St., Newnan. . . .

No Additions

Luke Appling has a lifetime batting average of .312. . . . The Boston Red Sox, whose owner, Tom Yawkey, used to buy entire new teams during the Winter, will start the season without a single major league addition this time. . . . Reason: Mgr. Joe McCarthy and Gen. Mgr. Joe Cronin are placing the accent on youth within their own organization. . . . The other day in the Braves' training camp, Mgr. Bill Southworth ordered sliding practice. . . . Earl Torgeson figured it was a little two hot so he set fire to the sawdust in the sliding pit. . . . After it was extinguished, Torgy had to make the first slide. . . . Paul Calvert, the pitcher purchased by the Crackers last season who never reported, is getting a tryout with Washington . . . Calvert bought himself from Toronto for $1,500 and now is trying to sell himself to the Nats for $5,000. . . . Frank Ziegler, Tech fullback, is honeymooning after his marriage last Saturday. . . . And Stan Raymond, local radio sports voice, will marry Dorothy Styers on March 27. . . .

Haskins' Number

Wayne Haskins, Georgia's extra-point specialist, will probably wear the numeral "7" this season. . . . Reason: First, he will be seeking the seventh point of the score . . . and second, more important, the 130-pound Haskins is a bit small for the double numbers used on Georgia jerseys . . . Georgia Tech football practice starts March 28 for freshmen, with holdovers reporting about a week later. . . . The Spring session will be climaxed with a T-Day game in April. . . . Clay Matthews, Tech tackle and wrestling champ, is a son of Matty Matthews, a former Cracker catcher. . . . Incidentally, Tech and Emory have identical wrestling uniforms except for the lettering. . . . More than 40 of the 113 Kentucky Derby nominees have raced this Winter. . . . Atlanta's Jim Hearn has a record of 20-13 in the major leagues. . . . Aside to Mrs. O. B. Lowe, of Carrollton: Max Schmeling won the world's heavyweight title from Jack Sharkey in 1930. . . .

Needs a Homer

Georgia Tech's Dick Harvin is an exceptional athlete. . . . In his first varsity football game against Vandy, he caught a pass for a touchdown. . . . In his first track meet, he won the shot put in the N. C. indoor meet. . . . Now all he needs to do is hit a home run in his first baseball game on March 21. . . . If practice means anything, he'll do it, too, as he hit the right-field wall, 384 feet away, with two consecutive line drives the other day. . . . That luncheon to be given by Roby Robinson in honor of Herman Hickman and featuring the large man with Bob Dodd and Wally Butts should be the funniest show of the year. . . . The "claw" glove, which makes it practically impossible for first basemen to miss a ball, has been outlawed for the 1950 season. . . . Jack Onslow has studied movies of White Sox Pitcher Bill Wight and claims to have discovered why he has difficulty in getting the ball over the plate. . . . Of 390 kids who attended a Giant tryout camp, 40 were signed to contracts.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Lt. Davis May Return To West Point as Coach

Condensed From AP, UP, INS Wire Reports

Lt. Glenn Davis, former Army football star arriving in Miami for a two-week vacation, was non-committal on two subjects yesterday. He refused to say whether he plans to quit the Army and play football, neither would he discuss his rumored engagement to Movie Actress Elizabeth Taylor.

But after planting a big kiss on Miss Taylor, who met him at the airport, Davis said that he expected to return to West Point in August to serve as an assistant coach on Earl Blaik's staff. Davis, now on duty in Korea, returned to the States to participate in the recent All-Army basketball tournament.

The American Bowling Congress rejected an amendment yesterday which would permit Negroes to participate in competition. A Catholic priest resigned from the ABC Board after the group agreed to keep the 33-year-old ban.

BRIEF BITS—George Fairchild, 74-year-old Pennsylvanian, annexed the 16-yard championship in the Great Southern Trapshoot at Jacksonville, Fla. . . . The Phillips Oilers will defend their AAU basketball title against a field of 43 teams from 23 States in the annual meet which opens at Oklahoma City tomorrow. . . . Earl Clark, former Colorado College All-American, signed with the Los Angeles Dons as backfield coach. . . . Doug Ford, Larchmont, N. Y., amateur took a first-round lead in the Gainesville, Fla., open with a 67. . . The Whitaker entry of My Request and Miss Request tops a 12-horse field in the $25,000 New Orleans Handicap today. . . . Lord Grillo and Three Rings are expected to be co-favorites in the Horning Handicap at Gulfstream. . . . Old Rockport, Santa Anita Derby winner, left yesterday for Louisville and the Kentucky classic.

Hamline Five Enters Finals Of NAIB Meet

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Hamline's Pied Pipers played a great "stall" game in the last minutes last night to score a 52-to-43 victory over Beloit, (Wis.) College in the semi-finals of the National Intercollegiate (NAIB) basketball tournament.

The St. Paul, Minn., team, champions here in 1942, set a blazing early pace that had Beloit's big gold trailing by 11 points at the half, 29-18, they never eased off the pressure even though their greatest star, Vern Mikkelson, fouled out with nine minutes and 25 seconds remaining.

The Pied Pipers will meet Regis College, of Denver, in the title game tonight. Regis whipped Indiana State, 48 to 45, in two overtime periods to gain its spot in the title round.

A near capacity crowd of 8,000, more than 600 of them Hamline students, let go a continuous roar as the Pied Pipers had possession of the ball in all but one minute and five seconds of the last eight and one-half minutes.

Hamline scored on 32 percent of the floor shots, while Beloit's average was 35 percent.

Pro Complains While Golfers Praise New Ball

Here's an extract from a Pro's letter received recently:

"Your Les Strokes is a world beater. Our hot shot players are all dropping down one club with this ball on long approach shots and are getting distance out of this world on tee shots and long woods. This makes it tough to sell other new balls when we have Les Strokes on display."

Not a serious complaint, you'll agree. The sensational new Les Strokes golf ball has a dynamic liquid center with 10 times the usual amount of power transmitting liquid.

Golfers coast to coast say it's helping them cut strokes off their scores. You find it at golf shops throughout the Atlanta District. The Worthington Ball Company, Elyria, Ohio, U.S.A. World's largest exclusive golf ball maker since 1904.

Gearhart Homers in 1st Intra-Squad Game

Byron Taylor Shines In Mound Stint

By F. M. WILLIAMS
Constitution Sports Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. — Lloyd Gearhart hit a 400-foot home run and little Dave Williams, the high-priced kid second baseman, bounced a triple off the left-centerfield wall to drive in two men as "Spec" Dozier's team whipped Mickey Katkaveck's in the first Cracker intra-squad game of Spring drills yesterday, 6-2.

Gearhart's blow cleared the fence at almost the identical spot which Williams' triple hit high on the wall. It came on his first time at bat in the second inning and tied the count at 1-1.

Williams' hit highlighted a four-run uprising in the third inning. All the damage was done at the expense of Southpaw Joe Kirkland, who worked the first three innings.

While Gearhart and Williams were the big offensive guns, the finest pitching performance of the day belonged to Rookie Right-hander Byron Taylor, who went the first three frames for the winners, and Dick Hoover, who worked the last three.

Both of them gave up a run but neither was earned.

Of the two, Taylor probably did the best job. The bespectacled lad who won 18 games for Pensacola last season, got off to a bad start, but the way he worked out of the hole must have been encouraging to Manager Cliff Dapper, who has said repeatedly that Taylor has a great chance to stick with the Crackers this year.

Taylor walked Jack Hollis on four pitches to open the game, and then Ralph Brown poked a single into left. When Gearhart bobbled the ball, Hollis moved to third and Brown to second.

Bob Thorpe grounded out to short with no advance, but Hollis came home when Jim Bagby, pinch-hitting for Al Flair, flied to right.

Flair played the entire game at first base but could not take his turn at the bat because of blisters on his left hand. He didn't want to take a chance of aggravating the injury.

Brown's hit was the only one the Katkaveck's got off Taylor.

They collected two off Hoover, both singles by Chet Hajduk whose last blow came after Charlie Weathers had dropped Paul Jay's long fly ball to centerfield for a two base error. Jay scored on the hit.

After Gearhart had tied the count in the second inning with his homer. the Doziers went to work on Kirkland, who was tired and showed it. He retired one batter in the third, then walked Ray Williams. Verble's fly to right fell for a single and George Fisher singled to left to drive in Ray Williams.

Then little Dave Williams slammed his triple, scoring Verble and Fisher, and came on over the plate himself a moment later on a wild pitch.

A double by Fisher, a single by Williams, which took a bad hop through Hajduk's legs, and a fielder's choice on Gearhart's roller got the Doziers their final run in the fifth inning.

SHORT NOTES—If the first box score of the season is a bit confusing, here's the explanation . . . in order to let the infielders and outfielders not in the starting lineup get all the hitting possible, a pinch batter was used for the pitchers each time they came up. As a result Bill Ehlman, a young catcher owned by Pensacola, batted twice for the Katkavecks and once for the Doziers . . . Shortstops Jeff Bell and Hal Brown, both of the Katkaveck team, made the best defensive plays of the day . . . Bell came up with Charlie Woddail's bad hopper in the third and Brown with Dab Laney's roller back of second in the sixth . . . Frank Girard, the oldest umpire in the Southern League, in point of service, worked the game . . . He is visiting relatives here . . . Among the spectators were two former well-known coaches who are now back in the Navy and stationed at the Pensacola Air Base, Jim Scoggins, of Vanderbilt, and Babe Woods, of North Carolina State . . . An entire class of 'teenagers from a nearby school, who happened to be enjoying a physical education class at the time the game began also were in the grandstand . . . Gene Verble pulled the smartest play of the game in the third inning . . . He was on second when Hajduk, the defensive third baseman, walked to the mound with the ball . . . Verble promptly stole third . . . Jack Coker, the southpaw pitcher who is now at the University of Florida, has changed his mind about continuing baseball, Manager Dapper said, and will not report . . . Bill Kennedy and Art Fowler, pitchers, are still missing although both have been due for a couple of days.

Papers Served in Majors

Condensed From AP, UP, INS Wire Reports

U. S. Marshalls served papers on 12 of the 16 major league baseball teams yesterday in connection with the $2,500,000 damage suit filed against organized baseball by former St. Louis Cardinal Pitchers Max Lanier and Fred Martin.

The owners, the rest of whom will probably receive papers today, have only until Tuesday to answer a show-cause order in New York, explaining why Lanier and Martin, both suspended five years for jumping to the Mexican League in 1946, should not be allowed to play baseball.

Meanwhile, in New York, Attorney Frederic A. Johnson said he would ask a Federal court Monday to order baseball to show cause why Danny Gardella should not be reinstated immediately.

While all this was going on at home, the ball clubs prepared to open their "Grapefruit Season" today with eight games on the slate. All 16 of the major league teams face big league opposition during the day. Top tilts send the World Champion Cleveland Indians against the New York Giants at Tuscon, Ariz.; the National League Champion Boston Braves against the Brooklyn Dodgers at Miami and the New York Yankees against the St. Louis Cardinals in St. Petersburg.

AMERICAN LEAGUE NOTES—Joe McCarthy named Maurice (Lefty) McDermitt and Willard Nixon, the Lindale boy, to share pitching chores with Mel Parnell for Boston against Cincinnati today. The two youngsters are rated as the top prospects among Red Sox rookies to be retained. Walt Dropo, ex-Birmingham slugger, will be at first base with Bill Goodman and Merrill Combs sharing second base duties. . . . Yankee catcher Yogi Berra drove his car into a tree en route to the New Yorkers camp and injured his right knee. He worked out later, but said that the knee bothered him.

Meanwhile, X-rays revealed that Hank Bauer's previously injured ankle was not broken, but showed a deep-seated injury. He'll rest at least two more days. Mgr. Casey Stengel announced that Babe Young would be the first of four candidates to play first base in an exhibition game. He'll play against the Cards. . . . Lefthander Bob Cruze, a rookie up from Thomasville, of Georgia-Florida League, gave up only one hit during a three-inning stint in a Detroit intrasquad game yesterday. He was the winning pitcher as the "regulars" beat the "yannigans," 5-3, in six innings.

Gil Coan hit a homer and got praised for his bunting in the Washington camp. Mgr. Joey Kuhel was well pleased with the outfielder's bunting style. Paul Calvert will start on the hill in today's opener. . . . The A's will counter with Joe Coleman, followed by Lou Brisse and Charlie Harris. All Connie Mack's boys are ready except Barney McCoskey, who pulled a back muscle several days ago, and Don White, who is being treated for a calcium deposit in his right elbow. . . . The White Sox and Browns tie up at Hollywood, with Allen Gettell, Howard Judson and Walt Pierce slated to hurl for the Sox. The sensation of the Brownie camp is Bob Seltzer, former UCLA star. A college pitcher, he's been shifted to the outfield.

NATIONAL LEAGUE BITS—The Champion Braves will use Johnny Beazley, Johnny Antonelli and Bobby Hogue in their opener against the Dodgers. Manager Billy Southworth announced that Pete Reiser, who pulled a muscle in his groin Thursday, would be in centerfield . . . Jackie Robinson was named by the Dodgers to bat cleanup in the Brave opener. Slated to hurl against the champs are Elmer Sexauer, Bob Austin and Pat McGlothin . . . The Giants will use Larry Jansen as a starter against the Indians . . Charlie Grimm's Cubs plan to use Wait Dubiel, Dewey Adkins and Dwain Sloat against the Pirates at San Bernardino . . . Ritchie Ashburn, the Phil's prize outfielder, lashed four hits, including two doubles and a triple in an intra squad game yesterday. Eddie Miller also looked good. Eddie Sawyer selected Russ Meyer to open against the Tigers today . . . Rookie Infielder Gerald Staley did not allow a ball to be hit out of the infield as he worked three innings in a Cardinal camp game yesterday. Catcher Joe Gargiola tripled home the winning run for the "regulars" . . .

SOUTHERN DOTS—Mgr. George Myatt ordered two workouts daily for the Chattanooga Lookouts. He forsees an improved team, and said "We've bigger and better men than last year, much more speed, youth and size, as well as ability." . . . Catcher Joe Stephenson, of the Birmingham Barons, got his first workout at the Steel City Club's camp at Ocala, Fla., yesterday. He was sidelined most of last season with a broken leg. . . . Rollie Hemsley, the new pilot of the Nashville Vols, said he was well pleased with the club at Gainesville, Fla. "No sore arms, and no soreheads," Hemsley smiled. The club's top physical condition prompted him to move the opening inter-squad game up a day and slate it for Wednesday.

Four Games Slated As NIT Opens Today

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK—(AP)—The twelfth National Invitation basketball tournament opens at Madison Square Garden today with two double-headers designed to cut the unprecedented field of a dozen teams down to its normal ration of eight.

The inclusion of four New York clubs, greatest quantity of home talent ever entered in this post-season dribble derby, swelled the entry list to unusual proportions and made four extra games necessary.

Tournament officials who threw open the gates to the Gotham quartet spotted all four local entries on the opening program with no guarantee that any would be left after the first day's firing ceases.

In the opening game at 3:30 p. m., San Francisco University with a record of 21 victories and five defeats, takes on Manhattan college (18-7). The second half of the matinee pits Bradley University (25-6) against New York University (12-7).

Bowling Green (21-6) meets St. John's (15-8) in the first game at 8 o'clock tonight, followed by Loyola of Chicago (22-5) against City College of New York (17-7).

The four seeded teams make their first appearance Monday, when another day-night program is slated. In order, they are Kentucky (29-1), St. Louis (22-3), Utah (24-7) and Western Kentucky (25-3). All were handed first-round byes.

Kentucky meets the Loyola-CCNY winner and Western Kentucky the Bradley-NYU winner Monday afternoon. St. Louis will play the survivor of the Bowling Green-St. John's contest and Utah the San Francisco-Manhattan victor Monday night.

Monday's play will reduce the field to four teams for the semi-finals March 17. The finals are scheduled Saturday night, March 19, with the semifinal losers meeting for third place.

Tech, Georgia Tie In Swim Meet

By BOB CHRISTIAN

ATHENS—Georgia Tech and Georgia shared the lead with 36 points each at the conclusion of the first day's action in the Southeastern Conference swimming meet here last night, and four league records had been smashed in the process.

Six events were completed, with Florida resting in third place with 29 points, Vandy fourth with three, and Auburn yet to score.

Records fell during the six finals in the 150-yard backstroke, the 200-yard breaststroke, the 220-yard freestyle and the 400-yard freestyle relay. Georgia's Theyx Stewart broke his old SEC backstroke in the afternoon qualifying, then equalled his performance in the finals. His time was 1:40.7, who erased his old mark of 1:42.4.

Georgia Tech's Johnny Hiles covered the 220 freestyle distance on 2:18.0, breaking a ten-year-old mark of 2:18.9 set by Rood, of Florida. Another Jacket ace, Tommy Towles, cracked the 200 breaststroke twice, bettering the old record in qualifying, then improving on that last night. His final time was 2:33.4, and the old record, set by Van Clief, of Florida, in 1940, was 2:36.8.

The Jacket relay team did away with the 400-yard freestyle mark, swimming the distance in 3:42.1. This, too, broke an old Florida record, 3:43.9, set in 1941.

Preliminaries for the last five events on the program will begin at 2:30 p. m. today, with finals slated for 8 o'clock tonight.

'CITATION IS BEST HORSE I EVER SAW'--ARCARO

NEW ORLEANS — (UP) — Eddie Arcaro, one of the nations top jockeys who has ridden four Kentucky Derby winners, said yesterday Citation was "by far not only the best horse I have ever ridden, but the best I've ever seen."

"Citation is a horse on which you could make a mistake and recover," he said. "You could make 20 moves on him—go to the front, take back and come again. Assault was another horse like that. He was one of the best, but Citation was away in front of him."

Belloise KO's Ross in Fifth

NEW YORK— (AP) —Steve Belloise, hard-hitting Bronx middleweight contender, stopped J. T. Ross, lanky San Jose, Cal., youngster in 1:13 of the fifth round of the featured 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden last night. Each weighed 157¼.

The 30-year-old Belloise showed little regard for the vaunted power of the 24-year-old, six-foot-one-and-a-half Californian.

He waded after his gangling opponent and nailed him repeatedly with looping lefts and rights to the head.

Ross, making his Garden debut on the strength of 26 knockouts in 36 fights—mostly in California—looked good for about 2½ minutes of the first round. He speared Belloise with his long left and kept the Bronxite off balance.

Morris Brown Tops Morehouse

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(AP)—Tuskegee's Golden Tigers upset favored Florida A. & M. College, 63-54, to enter the finals of the Southern Conference basketball tournament last night.

The defending champions will meet Morris Brown College of Atlanta for the title tonight.

Tuskegee battled the Florida Rattlers on even terms the first two quarters, gaining a 31-29 lead at halftime. Late in the game the winners spurted to run up a wider margin.

Morris Brown defeated Morehouse, another Atlanta school, 60-49, in another semi-finals contest earlier.

Alexander, Cooper Win In 4-Ball

By FRANK EIDGE, JR.

MIAMI, Fla. — (UP) — The methodical team of Skip Alexander and Pete Cooper yesterday bounced the favored and jovial twosome of Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum from the second round of the 24th annual Four-Ball Golf Tournament.

Alexander, of Southern Pines, N. C., and his partner from Ponte Vedra, Fla., captured a 2-and-1 upset when Mangrum's 10-foot putt on the 35th green rimmed the cup in spite of Snead's hollering for it to get in.

Both Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Mangrum, of Chicago, approached the green munching ice cream sandwiches.

"It's now or never," Snead joked with the crowd.

The victors won their match the hard way. They were one hole ahead at the halfway mark by virtue of Alexander's 50-foot chip to the cup for an eagle three on the par five, 540-yard 15th hole.

Snead and Mangrum evened the match in the afternoon but went two-down on the final nine to the more accurate chipping and putting of both Alexander and Cooper, who appeared to be teamed perfectly to carry the load of the 36-hole grind.

The other favorite teams advanced to the semi-finals. Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, coasted to a 2-and-1 victory over Tony Penna, Cincinnati, and Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C.

Middlecoff and Ferrier, the defending champions, never were in trouble throughout the match.

Unspectacular but almost perfect golf was turned in for the second day running by Herman Keiser, Akron, Ohio, and Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C. They beat Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., and Dave Douglas. Wilmington, Del., 5 and 4.

The Keiser-Palmer duo turned in a best-ball 62 for the first 18 and shot the next nine holes in 31, which is four under par for each nine played.

Girls' Tourney Opens at Arena

Four games are slated in the first round of the Southern Open girls' basketball tournament which gets under way today at the Sports Arena. Fifteen teams are entered in the meet.

Griffin Red Shield and the Atlanta Rebels clash in the first contest at 3 o'clock. In other games, Oneonta, Ala., Pullets vs. Marietta Veterans Administration, Dun-Bradstreet vs. Dunlap, Tenn., Travelers, and Tabor, N. C., All-Stars vs. Goodyear, of Rockmart.

In other matches, Dick Lever won over Chris Zaharias on a disqualification; Golden Terror and Don McIntyre tussled to a draw and Babe Zaharias and Carl Wampler groaned to a deadlock.

Forest Park Beats North Clayton Twice

Forest Park High captured a double-header basketball program from North Clayton at the Forest Park gymnasium last night, the boys winning 72-33 and the girls 25-14.

Lynwood Nash, star forward, led the winning boys' attack with 31 points despite the fact he played only half of the game.

'I'LL PITCH SOONER THAN YOU THINK'

Houtteman, of Tigers, Rallies After Fracture

BY FRANK KENESSON

LAKELAND, Fla.—(AP)—Young Art Houtteman, his skull fractured in an auto-truck collision, smiled from behind his bandages yesterday and bravely promised his Detroit Tiger teammates: "I'll be able to pitch sooner than you expect."

Returning from a dance with three Florida college youths, the 21-year-old pitcher was seriously injured Thursday night when his car collided with a heavy fruit truck at a Lakeland intersection.

He was carried unconscious to a hospital, suffering a fracture at the base of his skull.

But while the baseball world feared for his life, young Art rallied remarkably towards midday at Morrell Memorial Hospital, regained consciousnes and spoke a few words with anxious Tiger officials.

One of them was General Manager Billy Evans, who had kept vigil at Art's bedside through the night with Manager Red Rolfe, Coach Ted Lyons and Trainer Jack Homel.

"Do you know me," Evans asked as Houtteman opened his eyes.

"Yes, Billy," Art responded.

"How do you feel?"

"Well, not bad."

"Do you think you will be able to pitch tomorrow?"

"No, but I'll be able to pitch sooner than you expect."

Dr. Edgar T. Watson, Lakeland physician for the Detroit Baseball Club, said the promising young hurler still was in a "very serious condition."

He added, however, that Houtteman's recovery would be "vastly speeded" if he could retain the degree of consciousness he showed yesterday.

Dr. Watson said that X-ray pictures made Thursday night after the accident indicated a fracture of a vertebrae at the base of the skull. After the pictures were fully dried, however, they clearly showed that the only fracture was a semicircular one across the base of Houtteman's skull, extending upward on either side behind his ears.

Besides the skull fracture, there were no serious injuries apparent, the physician reported. He added, however, there was a possibility of internal injuries. In addition, Houtteman suffered two deep cuts on the head and one over his left eye.

Houtteman's companions, whom he was driving home in his convertible from a dance on the Florida Southern College campus here, were painfully cut about the head. They are Jeanette Bradley, 19, of Lakeland; Arthur Joseph Falls, 23, of Queens Village, N. Y., and Melvin Alan Knowles, 24, of Fair Lawn, N. Y. Their conditions were described as "fair."

Because of the seriousness of Houtteman's injury, a Catholic priest administered rites of the church in the early hours of the morning.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Houtteman, Sr., flew down by plane from Detroit.

But Houtteman's rally had apparently brought him out of danger, attendants said.

Asked if the young Detroiter's life hung in the balance, Dr. Watson replied, "no, not that."

Then he added: "But it is a very, very serious fracture."

He would not guess when Houtteman might be able to pitch again.

The driver of the truck, Arvil B. Muse, 31, of Zephyr Hills, Fla., was not held. The crash occurred a few minutes after midnight.

Strong Field on Hand For SEAAU Meet Tonight

By JACK JACKSON

The cream of Dixie's female swim crop will be in action tonight at Emory as the Atlanta Swimming Association seeks its thirteenth consecutive Southeastern AAU tank crown.

Thirteen events, including the National Junior A. A. U. 300-yard individual medley relay, are on the card, which begins at 7 o'clock in the new Emory pool.

Dent Richards, for several years the star of the local team, will again be the ASA's chief threat in the SEAAU meet. Miss Richards, who have been winning trophies around these parts since she was 13, is the favorite in three events, despite expected strong opposition from such mermaids as Grace Durand, of Kenosha, Wis., and Margret Coles, of the University of Miami.

The national event sends five outstanding individual stars into action. Mary Link, winner of the Peach State Sectional Olympic Trials individual medley last Summer, carries the Atlanta hopes. She'll meet Grace and Pat Durand, of Kenosha; Margret Coles and Bobbie Doerr, of the Watzhung Lake (N. J.) Swimming Club.

The fancy diving event pits Birmingham's Lanette Ellis and Nancy Riviere against Sarah Wakefield, of Chapel Hill(N. C.

Out-of-town conhestants checked in yesterday in time to work out at the pool. The large field lists swimmers from Florida, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Alabama and North Carolina as well as Georgia. All are champions of their respective States.

Three events for girls 13 and under precede the National 300. The ASA will enter 18 local swimmers against representatives of several Atlanta elementary schools.

An admission of 60 cents will be charged for the card, with tickets on sale at the door.

BOY FROM TROPICS WINS SKI RACE FROM CANADIANS

AURORA, Ont.—(AP)—Students at St. Andrew's College, 20 miles north of Toronto, are just a bit embarrassed now when you mention skiing.

Richard Vaughan, a 12-year-old student from Bogota in tropical Colombia, South America, won a cross-country ski race here Thursday. Vaughan, only recently introduced to skis, marked up a time of 35 minutes and five seconds for the 22¾ miles.

FROM JOHN RAUCH

Rauch Gets Fan Mail From Europe

ATHENS — All-American John Rauch's football reputation has brought fan mail from Europe.

The Bulldog great has received fan mail from all corners of the United States, but his first European letter arrived recently from a Lithuanian in a Displaced Person's camp in Bayrouth-Bayern, Germany, in the U. S. Zone.

And the amazing thing about the letter—it was to John Rauch from John Rauch. The displaced John Rauch said he had read of Georgia John Rauch's football achievements and wondered if he would write him, especially if he knew anything of seven uncles which the writer of the letter has in the United States.

The "interested John" thought perhaps "football John" might be the son of one of his uncles. Georgia's Rauch, however, says that he cannot make any kinship connections, but he plans to write his interested admirer.

The envelope, incidentally, was addressed to "John Rauch, Yeadon, Pennsylvania Georgia," while the inside address was "Yeadon, Georgia Pennsylvania." The letter was received in Yeadon, Pa., Rauch's home town, and forwarded to him here.

PITTSBURGH — (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday appointed two more scouts, bringing the roster of talent experts to 16. Ben Tincup, veteran Indian pitcher of Vinita, Okla., and Cecil Beardon, Waco, Texas, are the new scouts.

Committee To Act On Football Rules

CHICAGO—(AP)—The entire football committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association will meet here today to act on recodification of its football rules book.

The new book, drafted by a subcommittee of the NCAA grid committee, has been reworded in an effort to present a simplified and clarified set of rules.

The recodification was a project separate from the annual rules changes approved by the NCAA at Palm Springs, Calif., earlier this year.

It was launched a year ago at a time when it appeared the NCAA and National Federation of High School Associations would formulate a joint prep-collegiate code. The two groups, however, failed to see eye-to-eye and continued their separate rules ways.

SOUTHWORTH BANKING ON REISER

Visit to Braves at Bradenton Camp Recalls Memories of Dean to Rice

By GRANTLAND RICE
North American Newspaper Alliance

BRADENTON, Fla.—It was here, where the Manatee River flows and occasional manatees or sea elephants pop up, that I spent many cheerful weeks back in 1934 and 1935 with Dizzy Dean.

The game has known only one Babe Ruth. It has also known only one Dizzy Dean. Both are unforgetable.

The scene here has changed now. It is dominated by Billy Southworth and his Boston Braves, champions of the National League. It is an old story how Billy Southworth took a third or fourth-place team and won the National League flag.

Today Billy knows that he faces much rougher competition. He knows that Burt Shotton and his Dodgers, Eddie Dyer and his Cardinals, Billy Meyer and his Pirates, and Leo Durocher and his Giants will all be stronger than they were a year ago.

"I know we must be stronger too," Billy Southworth tells you.

"I think we are. I am banking heavily on Pete Reiser, potentially a great ballplayer." (Once Larry MacPhail—no part of a fool—told me that Reiser was to be the Ty Cobb of the National League. He might have been.)

There is no better manager baseball than Billy Southworth. I can promise you that. McCarthy? Boudreau? Great. greater.

"I've known for some time we would have to be better this year than we were last," revealed Southworth. "We knew we had stronger opposition to face. Our situation is good. We have the two best starting pitchers in the league in Sain and Spahn. Both are better than 20-game winners. Any good team must have a stopper. We have two.

"I can also add that Alvin Dark, the rookie of the year in 1948, looks better than he did last season. With his speed, power, youth and skill—plus his ambition—he can be a great ballplayer, another Boudreau.

"Eddie Stanky is back in fine condition. Stanky is a big help to any club. He knows what it is all about. We lost Stanky for two months last year. We needed him badly. We are in a much better spot at first and third. We will be stronger at both places.

"And there's Pete Reiser. Grant, I think and believe Reiser is in for a great year."

When Billy Southworth tells you something, you have to believe him. At least, he believes what he tells you.

If Reiser is in for a great year, the Braves are a kick-in. Reiser was the one Dodger player who possessed the elements of greatness.

"We are handling Pete slowly and easily," Southworth said. "No hurry."

Recalls Old Diz

Anyone who ever knew Dizzy Dean as a ballplayer will keep missing him on every Bradenton visit.

"This Dean blows in, a raw rookie," the late Jimmy Wilson told me, "and right away he began wearing some of my expensive silk shirts. I finally find Diz wearing one and I boil over. When I've finished he stopped me with this—'Listen, Jimmy, would you want the greatest pitcher baseball has ever known to wear one dirty old shirt for a month?'

"Gabby Street and I were trying to tame him down. Diz had just had his tonsils taken out and wasn't feeling too hot. We were playing the Athletics that afternoon and around the fifth inning they filled the bases with nobody out.

"'I only wish I was in there pitchin' against those bums,' Dizzy said. 'What a pushover.'

"I noticed that the next three coming up were Simmons, Foxx and Cochrane. So I wigwagged to Gabby to send Dizzy in, with no warmup.

"You would have thought we'd given him a present of a million dollars. 'He won't be so fresh when he gets through with this,' I said to Gabby. What happened? Nothing much except that he struck out Simmons, Foxx and Cochrane. And that night he was sent to Houston. 'There goes a 30-game winner,' Gabby said, 'but I can't handle him now.'

"Another day we were walking past a hotel in Bradenton. 'I'll be right back,' Dizzy said. He was gone 20 minutes or longer. 'I just phoned Sam Breadon in St. Louis,' he said. 'I told him I wasn't going to sign. We had a terrific argument.'

"'I thought you'd already signed.' I said.

"'I have,' Dizzy said, 'but I reversed the charges and it cost Breadon $46.50.'

"Another day," Wilson went on, "I was trying to steer Diz away from the hotel where Frank Frisch was stopping. Dean had blown a practice game to go fishing. I know Frisch was sore then but would be O. K. the next day. Diz went into the lobby and began calling for Frisch.

"'If you find him,' I said, "It will cost you $200.'

"'I know it will,' Diz answered. 'But it's worth $200 to hear old Frank holler.'"

In those rather far-off times Diz lived every second of his life up to the limit. I've never seen a man who believed so much in himself. He had never played a game of bridge in his life, yet in his first attempt he played against Hal Sims for a penny a point and lost only a single dollar. He could never understand why Sims beat him.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—Shortstop Marty Marion, noted for his many and varied ailments as well as his fine fielding, will be sidelined today when the St. Louis Cardinals open their Spring exhibition schedule against the New York Yankees.

JIM STILL SIGNS NEW CONTRACT WITH BILLS; TO WORKOUT WITH TECH

Jim Still, former Georgia Tech quarterback who made good last season with the All-America Professional Football Conference Buffalo Bills, yesterday announced to The Constitution that he had signed a new two-year contract with the Bills.

"I received a very substantial increase in salary," Still said, "and am very happy over the new set-up."

Still didn't know, of course, but it has been rumored that the Bills' No. 1 quarterback last year, Georgie Ratterman, would not return to Buffalo. If this is true, and there are some indications it is, Jim may be in line for the regular starting signal-calling position with the pro team.

Still said that he was hoping to work out with Coach Bobby Dodd's Yellow Jackets in their Spring training, which starts early next month. He is planning, on reporting to the Bills' training camp at East Aurora, N. Y., some time in the middle of July with the other quarterbacks, who will show up two weeks ahead of the others for training.—GEORGE TISINGER.

Robinson Warns NL Opponents

VERO BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodger second baseman, gave warning yesterday to National League opponents that he'll "dish it out" this year.

"They'd better be rough on me this year because I'm sure going to be rough on them," he said after a flareup in an intra-squad game Thursday with Rookie Pitcher Chris Van Cuyk.

The former U. C. L. A. football star, first Negro ever to play in the major leagues, has been an uncomplaining but hard-playing member of the Dodgers for two seasons.

The Van Cuyk incident, although nothing more than a brief flareup, indicated a change in Jackie's temperament.

Early in the game he had booted a ground ball behind Pitcher Rex Barney, and the opposing bench started "riding" Robinson. He answered back, not only from his position but from the bench later.

In the late innings Robinson slashed a line single off the delivery of Van Cuyk after telling the pitcher "you'll be a 20-year man in Class C ball."

The next time Jackie came to bat, the first pitch from the 220-pound Van Cuyk—a 14-game winner with Fort Worth, Texas, last year—brushed him back from the plate. It was a fast ball around the letters. The next pitch was a fast one around the knees, and Jackie had to dance away.

Infuriated, Jackie swung at the next ball and popped up to the catcher.

"That's where your power is, Robinson," Van Cuyk shouted.

"You can't throw hard enough to hurt a baby," Jackie replied.

That ended the game, and as the players headed for the showers, Robinson caught up with the young pitcher and warned him against a repetition.

"He'd been trying to make a fool of me," Van Cuyk said later, "so I just reared back and fired one at him. Only one, though, the next one came close, but it slipped."

Riley Wins East Coast Golf Crown

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla—(AP)—Polly Riley, of Fort Worth, Texas, won the Florida East Coast Women's golf tournament yesterday by defeating Pay Devany, of Grosse Ile, Mich., 3 and 2.

In taking her second consecutive victory in the event, Miss Riley also gained a second leg on the Mrs. William R. Kenan, Jr., cup. Victory in three tournaments gives a player permanent possession of the trophy.

Miss Riley's fine short game was largely responsible for her victory in the final round. On the other hand Miss Devany was hitting the ball well through the fairway but was erratic in her play around the greens.

Stack Breaks Record

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(AP)—Allen Stack, Olympic backstroke champion and former Yale star, clipped 1.9 seconds from the American record in the 150-yard backstroke yesterday.

BARITONE CONCERT

Thomas Wins Big Audience In Versatile Performance

By HOWELL JONES

Thomas L. Thomas, distinguished baritone star of radio and the concert stage last night showed a capacity audience at Agnes Scott's Presser Hall that he had a perfect understanding of its musical taste. Consequently, he had little trouble in giving his listeners what they wanted.

The Welsh-born singing star brought several rousing ovations from the crowd in a program that ranged from grand opera to the Hit Parade. The audience refused to leave the hall until he had given them about six encores.

Thomas, star of a popular Sunday night radio program, is as versatile as any recitalists to appear in concert here in many years. There simply isn't a medium of song that is beyond his unusual capabilities.

He sang heroic arias from grand opera and Negro spirituals with equal ease, and his stage deportment was a "hit" of the show. Thomas time and again brought howls of laughter from the crowd with his witty commentary and pleasing interpretation of novelty songs.

He began his program with a group of Italian songs, including works by Rosa Iegrenzi, Falconieri and Rossini. A highlight of the group was his singing of Rossini's difficult "La Danza."

Thomas' second group was a brace of French songs. This group included "Mandoline," by Dupont; "Le Temps de Lilas," by Chausson, and the aria "Devant la Maison," from "The Damnation of Faust," by Berlioz.

Jacob Hannemann, pianist who accompanied the singer, played four songs by Robert Schumann—"Evening," "Soaring," "Why" and "Whims." Concluding the first section, Thomas sang a baritone aria from the Diaz opera, "Benvenuto Cellini."

However, it was in the second half that Thomas really won his audience. After giving a group of four traditional Welsh folk songs, one of the high spots of the concert, Thomas sang contemporary works by Eakin and Waring and two Negro spirituals.

Then came the parade of encores, including such scores as "Far Away Places," and "Shadrack," both songs identified with his radio show.

The concert was presented by the Decatur Junior Service League.

Charges in Strike Dismissed Against 3

E. J. Mitchell, Herman Fowler and W. T. Winslett, arrested Thursday on warrants charging assault and battery and violating the State picketing law, were discharged yesterday by Judge Quincy O. Arnold, of Fulton Civil Court, when the prosecutor failed to connect them with the alleged violations of law.

The warrants grew out of a fight near the Red Rock Bottling Plant on Jackson St., where a strike is in progress. F. E. Dekle was bound over to the Criminal Court under $200 bond on a warrant charging assault and battery.

SILVER COMET TRIPS

Atlantan Sleeps Through Train Derailment

An Atlantan student slept through the derailment of the Silver Comet passenger train yesterday at a pass switch near Fredericksburg, Va.

Joseph F. Webster, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Weaver Webster, of 2909 Peachtree Rd., N. E., was awakened unharmed after four cars of the Seaboard Air Line train had come to a stop in a field following their derailment.

Asked by Passenger Service Agent G. F. Keeley, of Norfolk, if he had ever seen a train wreck before, Webster replied "no," and was instructed to look out the window. What he saw made him gasp:

"Tell Mom I'm all right."

Webster was en route to Hartford, Conn., where he was to attend a special school of the Travelers Insurance Company. He is a sophomore in the Extension School of the University of Georgia, and a graduate of the University School for Boys, here.

While railway officials of the Seaboard said there were no personal injuries to any of the train's passengers, three dining car attendants and a woman were taken to a Fredericksburg Hospital for examination. Their injuries were reported as not appearing serious.

A two-hour delay was posted on the train bound from Birmingham to New York. Atlanta officials of the company say they expect no delay on the Southbound trip of the train scheduled in Atlanta at 7:30 a. m. today.

Suburban Coach Would Quit Line

The Suburban Coach Company, Inc., of Atlanta, has petitioned the State Public Service Commission for permission to discontinue one of its routes serving the Buckhead area by way of Piedmont and Buford Roads.

The route that would be eliminated, the Public Service Commission disclosed, would be the service "between the junction of Piedmont Road and Buford Highwa; and the junction of Piedmont Road and Linbergh Drive, via Piedmont Road and Lindbergh Drive."

A hearing will be held at 2 p m., March 22.

Your Stars Today

Sun in Pisces

General Tendencies — Keep business interests confined to the morning hours, no matter what part of the country is your home. In the afternoon turn to other things—the entire solar system is turning, so you move along with it. This seems reasonable! The moon is in the sign Leo just now, not a good place for starting a garden, wearing new clothes for the first time or trying out your new slipcovers. You will do best by sticking to old things until after the first part of next week, and this includes friends as well just now.

If It's Your Birthday—Changes feature your next few years, beginning earlier than you may think at present. Watch the Spring months; much of this will be interesting and enjoyable although some of it can be trying if you insist upon abiding by the old rules. You are passing through a period of new experiences and these will continue until you learn the lessons which life intends you to master. If you will think of life as just a continuation of school days, it will become simpler for you. Don't complicate this with love affairs just now.

One Good Tug Deserves Another

There's no holding a good man down, it seems. On a bet, Jean Andre Le Gall of St. Malo pulled the ferry, "La Hollande," the length of a pier in the Breton harbor, holding the tow line in his teeth. Now he wants the loan of a larger vessel for the same purpose.

You'll hear it on WAGA-CBS at that time with screen star Gene Tierney as guest.

Ginger Prince on ABC

When Ginger Prince, who is being hailed in Hollywood as a second Shirley Temple, appears on today's WCON-ABC broadcast of the Abbott and Costello Kid Show at 11 a. m., she will have won the distinction of being the youngest guest star ever to appear on the program. The six-year-old Atlanta, Ga., youngster, heralded as a sensational singer, is starred in "The Lawton Story" and will sing one of the songs from her new picture.

Ginger Prince

TEEN-AGE ROUND-UP

Author of Romantic Ballad Latest Youthful Success

By SHELIA JOHN DALY

CROSS-COUNTRY CHIT-CHAT: Have you heard about the newest lucky guy to join the ranks of teen-aged successes? It's 19-year-old Stanley Mish, of Johnstown, Pa., whose romantic ballad, "In the Glow of the Evening," has just been recorded by Johnny Long and his orchestra. As a 17-year-old Ferndale High School student, Johnny won first prize in a magazine-sponsored music contest with this song. And he gets full professional royalties on the new disk, too. . . . If the trend spreads, high school boys are going to have to buy tickets, candy, popcorn and perfume every time they take their best girls to a Friday night movie. Six downtown theaters in Los Angeles are now offering small bottles of perfume simply for dropping a quarter into a machine in the lobby. . . . High school girls who are quick with the needle have devised a new fad to keep their bangs dry on rainy days. They are stitching their own colorful head scarves with double-fabric visors that fit right over the forehead. Looks cute, too. . . According to a recent poll, 10 percent of all junior and senior high school students attend moves three or more times a week. Gregory Peck—how alluring can you get! . . . . In Chicago Heights high schools, like everywhere else, scatter pins are the rage with fashion-minded girls. One smart character has even devised a way to wear the pins in her hair! And, of course, you all know the style trick of pinning scatter pins to a small handbag or into a narrow black velvet ribbon to wear around the neck for evening dates.

MISCELLANEOUS DATA ABOUT THISA AND THATA.— In an interview given to a high school paper in Weehawken, Tommy Dorsey waxed wrathful (instead of the sweet swing waxing he used to make—that's a joke, sonny!) about the new be-bop music. The Sentimental Gentleman said briefly: "I don't like it" and then, quoting Bea Lillie, went on to say, "It's here to go." . . . Because of a rough fraternity initiation a few months ago, high school students in San Antonio, Texas, must now sign pledges saying that they do not belong to any fraternity, sorority or other secret society. Otherwise they will not be allowed to hold class office, or take part in any other school activities. . . . And from a "problem" column of a Vermont school paper comes this brand of humor. Question: "Last week I went out with my best girl friend's boy friend. Did I do wrong?" Answer: "Don't you remember?"

Opening lead: King of Diamonds.

When a defender has a choice of two leads and the combinations from which he must lead are almost alike, in many cases the selection of the winning play is a matter of mere guesswork. Sometimes, however, a clever diagnostician can detect a difference where none appears to the untrained eye.

In today's hand West missed an opportunity to make a post-graduate analysis. The bidding complied with regulations. South's bid of two Spades is worthy of note. It is not forcing, but announces a hand of good playing strength confined principally to the Spade suit. When the opening bid is not kept alive, the fourth hand is allowed considerable latitude in reopening the bidding. He may do so on not much more than suspicion when the opposition has confessed its weakness. To distinguish the present hand from such holdings as has been suggested, South elected to bid one more Spade than he had to. With a partner that had acknowledged he was trickless, West considered it the better part of valor to refrain from contesting. The final contract, however, he regarded as a bit of effrontery and doubled with the expectation of laying up something for the Winter.

Three Diamond tricks were cashed, on the third of which East discarded a low Club. Having somewhat similar holdings in Hearts and Clubs, West tossed a coin and when it turned "heads" he led the King of Hearts. Declarer ran down every one of his trumps, reducing his own hand to a Heart and a Club. West at this point held the high Heart and the King-Queen of Clubs and found it impossible to discard. If he threw a Club, dummy would shed the Jack of Hearts and both Clubs would be good. If he tossed the high heart, dummy would let go the Jack of Clubs and the remaining two cards would be winners.

Note how differently this hand will develop if West at trick four leads the King of Clubs instead of th Heart. Declarer can run all his trumps, but will be left at the end with just the Ace and deuce of Hearts. West can safely throw the Queen of Clubs, keeping the setting trick in Hearts. It is true that West will be up against a guess as to which to hold at the end, but East should help him out by discarding methodically. He should first discard all three Hearts and then start on the Clubs. West will thus be able to tell that South has one more Heart.

Was there any way for West reasonably to deduce that the Club rather than the Heart was the winning shift? It involved a familiarity with the operation of the squeeze play. It is a fundamental principle of the squeeze that if one hand becomes completely disconnected from its mate, that play cannot operate. If the Ace of Clubs is driven out, dummy becomes isolated from the closed hand and is no longer a threat.

FAMILY AFFAIRS

Tolerance, Understanding Are What Sick Child Needs

By GLADYS BEVANS

A young mother, who is also a very loving young wife with a sense of humor, wrote me one day saying in effect:

"My husband has been sick (but not very!), and after the first few hectic days, I practiced 'sick-child psychology' on him, unbeknownst to him of course—and it worked like magic. How men do act up when they're sick!" She ended thus, with affectionate tolerance. Let's do as well with our growing sons and daughters.

Parents — especially those who are learning to manage and understand, as well as love their first child—should try, when illness occurs, to associate a child's behavior with his sickness. For example, a mother described the most trying actions of her little girl and then at the end of her letter she said: "My little girl has an abscess in her ear and the doctor cannot seem to clear it up."

Another mother writes in a discouraged vein, describing what seemed to be an unhappy and frustrated little girl. It ended by saying that the child had been ill for two years. Of course, these children's behavior was affected by their physical condition. But understanding this, and skillful management would have helped a lot.

Children who are not well or who are convalescent over a period of time need great understanding, great patience, allowances made for them, calmness in handling, a great deal of rest, variety of occupation, much more diversion than the well child, and of course, more attention, since he or she needs care and diversion.

We must try to give the semi-invalids all these things without foolish over-indulgence.

Seventy-Year-Old High School Pupil

Seventy-year-old Jens Hansen of Danebod, Denmark, claims to be the oldest high-school pupil this side of the Iron Curtain. An ironsmith, whose work had dwindled almost to nothing, he got bored. So he registered at the local school. He also joins his 10-year-old fellows at football. Hansen is likely not the oldest high school pupil in the world, however, since illiterate oldsters in Russia are excused from labor if they register for school.
